Beasley's Christmas Party C. W. Munger, 2010 2m 1f w doubling or 10m 2f w o doubling Based on a story by Booth Tarkington A journalist new to a Midwestern state capitol circa 1900 notices there is something funny going on at the charming house next door Turns out gubernatorial candidate David Beasley lives there with his young ward an orphan who has a menagerie of imaginary friends Beasley s nemesis Simeon Peck plans to ruin Beasley s chances at the statehouse but everyone learns something at Beasley s Christmas Party including the pretty Miss Applethwaite who Mr Beasley spurned years before Conceived for three actors to play multiple roles but playable in many configurations this 75 minute holiday play is a heartwarming fable of imagination and celebration There s a goodhearted intelligence to these characters with utter devotion to craftsmanship they re distracting us from the play s age until we without realizing have been enchanted by it Impressive as any number of rabbit filled top hats Enchanting VarietyIn the holiday chests of many households nestled in jumbles of ornaments and lights there is one special heirloom to be given pride of place on the Christmas tree an old painted angel perhaps with history in its chipped wooden wings or a faded star that outshines any flashy electric bulb Beasley s Christmas Party is a bit like such small treasures Time Out New York , Beasley's Christmas Party Booth

Beasley's Christmas Party (Classic Reprint) Booth Tarkington,2017-12-16 Excerpt from Beasley s Christmas Party The moon hung kindly above its level roof in the silence of that October morning as I checked my gait to loiter along the picket fence but suddenly the house showed a light of its own The spurt of a match took my eye to one of the upper windows then a steadier glow of orange told me that a lamp was lighted The window was opened and a man looked out and whistled loudly About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Beasley's Christmas Party Booth Tarkington,2019-12-06 In Beasley s Christmas Party Booth Tarkington blends rich humor with a poignant exploration of social dynamics during the festive season Set in the early 20th century this novella captures the spirit of Christmas through the lens of a small town celebration revealing the complexities of human relationships and societal expectations Tarkington s prose is characterized by its wit and keen observational detail reflecting both the charm and contradictions of American life during the period The story unfolds around the character of Beasley whose naive enthusiasm is juxtaposed with the varying responses of the townsfolk illuminating the quirks and foibles of community interactions amid festive cheer Booth Tarkington an acclaimed American author and two time Pulitzer Prize winner is known for his insightful depictions of Midwestern life His background in a small town environment provided him with firsthand experience of the social intricacies he often portrayed in his works Tarkington s keen interest in the evolution of American society and culture informs his narratives making them both reflective and relevant for his contemporaries and today's readers alike. Beasley's Christmas Party is a delightful read for those who appreciate novels that deftly intertwine humor and social commentary. Tarkington's incisive observations will resonate with anyone who enjoys exploring the nuances of communal life during the holidays, making this novella an essential addition to the seasonal literary canon.

Beasley's Christmas Party. Illustrated by Ruth Sypherd Clements, 1909 Beasley's Christmas Party Newton Booth Tarkington, 2020-11-23 The maple bordered street was as still as a country Sunday so quiet that there seemed an echo to my footsteps. It was four o'clock in the morning, clear October moonlight misted through the thinning foliage to the shadowy sidewalk and lay like a transparent silver fog upon the house of my admiration as I strode along returning from my first night's work on the Wainwright Morning Despatch. I had already marked that house as the finest to my taste in Wainwright though hitherto on my excursions to this metropolis, the state capital, I was not without a certain native jealousy that Spencerville, the county seat where I lived, had nothing so good. Now however I approached its purlieu with a pleasure in it quite unalloyed for I was at last myself a resident albeit of only one day's standing of Wainwright and the house though I had not even an idea who lived there part of my possessions as a citizen. Moreover I might enjoy the warmer pride of a next door neighbor for Mrs. Apperthwaite's where I had taken a room was just beyond. This was the quietest part of Wainwright business stopped short of it and the fashionable residence section had overleaped this forgotten backwater leaving it undisturbed and unchanging with that look about it which is the quality of few urban quarters and eventually of none as a town grows to be a city, the look of still being a neighborhood. This friendliness of appearance was largely the emanation of the homely and beautiful house which so greatly pleased my fancy.

it and the fashionable residence section had overleaped this forgotten backwater leaving it undisturbed and unchanging with that look about it which is the quality of few urban quarters and eventually of none as a town grows to be a city the look of still being a neighborhood This friendliness of appearance was largely the emanation of the homely and beautiful house which so greatly pleased my fancy It might be difficult to say why I thought it the finest house in Wainwright for a simpler structure would be hard to imagine it was merely a big old fashioned brick house painted brown and very plain set well away from the street among some splendid forest trees with a fair spread of flat lawn But it gave back a great deal for your glance just as some people do It was a large house as I say yet it looked not like a mansion but like a home and made you wish that you lived in it Or driving by of an evening you would have liked to hitch your horse and go in it spoke so surely of hearty old fashioned people living there who would welcome you merrily It looked like a house where there were a grandfather and a grandmother where holidays were warmly kept where there were boisterous family reunions to which uncles and aunts who had been born there would return from no matter what distances a house where big turkeys would be on the table often where one called the hired man and named either Abner or Ole would crack walnuts upon a flat iron clutched between his knees on the back porch it looked like a house where they played charades where there would be long streamers of evergreen and dozens of wreaths of holly at Christmas time where there were tearful happy weddings and great throwings of rice after little brides from the broad front steps in a word it was the sort of a house to make the hearts of spinsters and bachelors very lonely and wistful and that is about as near as I can come to my reason for thinking it the finest house in Wainwright The moon hung kindly above its level roof in the silence of that October morning as I checked my gait to loiter along the picket fence but suddenly the house showed a light of its own The spurt of a match took my eye to one of the upper windows then a steadier glow of orange told me that a lamp was lighted The window was opened and a man looked out and whistled loudly Beasley's Christmas Party Booth Tarkington,
