Children, Childhood, and the Future Andrea Kleeberg-Niepage, 2020-01-10 Although most of the world's children live in the Global South much of the corpus of scientific knowledge which forms the basis of the current notion of good childhood worldwide is drawn from research on Western middle class children Even cross cultural research often applies the Western model of childhood as the standard to which others must correspond This volume serves to bridge this gap by both bringing up significant features of the development and socialisation of children in African countries and presenting cross cultural procedures which help to discuss and develop differentiated and joint ideas about childhood instead of implementing one sided standards which are disconnected from most children's lives pummeled and history filled American city At least thirteen million Americans will have to move away from American coasts in the coming decades as rising sea levels and increasingly severe storms put lives at risk and cause billions of dollars in damages In Charleston South Carolina denial boosterism widespread development and public complacency about racial issues compound the city like our country has no plan to protect its most vulnerable In these pages Susan Crawford tells the story of a city that has played a central role in America s painful racial history for centuries and now as the waters rise stands at the intersection of climate and race Unbeknownst to the seven million mostly white tourists who visit the charming streets of the lower peninsula each year the Holy City is in a deeply precarious position Weaving science narrative history and the family stories of Black Charlestonians Charleston chronicles the tumultuous recent past in the life of the city from protests to hurricanes while revealing the escalating risk in its future A bellwether for other towns and cities Charleston is emblematic of vast portions of the American coast with a future of inundation juxtaposed against little planning to ensure a thriving future for all residents In Charleston we meet Rev Joseph Darby a well regarded Black minister with a powerful voice across the city and region who has an acute sense of the city s shortcomings when it comes to matters of race and water We also hear from Michelle Mapp one of the city s most promising Black leaders and Quinetha Frasier a charismatic young Black entrepreneur with Gullah Geechee roots who fears her people s displacement And there is Jacob Lindsey a young white city planner charged with running the city s ten year comprehensive plan efforts who ends up working for a private developer These and others give voice to the extraordinary risks the city is facing The city of Charleston with its explosive gentrification over the last thirty years crystallizes a human tendency to value development above all else At the same time Charleston stands for our need to change our ways and the need to build higher drier more densely connected places where all citizens can live safely Illuminating and vividly rendered Charleston is a clarion call and filled with characters who will stay in the reader s mind long after the final page
