The Plague Dogs Richard Adams, 1978 Animal Narratology Joela Jacobs, 2020-12-15 Animal Narratology interrogates what it means to narrate to speak speak for on behalf of and to voice or represent life beyond the human which is in itself as different as insects bears and dogs are from each other and yet more as individual as a single mouse horse or puma The varied contributions to this interdisciplinary Special Issue highlight assumptions about the human perception of attitude toward and responsibility for the animals that are read and written about thus demonstrating that just as the animal does not exist neither does the human In their zoopoetic focus the analyses are aware that animal narratology ultimately always contains an approximation of an animal perspective in human terms and terminology yet they make clear that what matters is how the animal is approximated and that there is an effort to approach and encounter the non human in the first place Many of the analyses come to the conclusion that literary animals give readers the opportunity to expand their own points of view both on themselves and others by adopting another s perspective to the degree that such an endeavor is possible Ultimately the contributions call for a recognition of the many spaces moments and modes in which human lives are entangled with those of animals one of which is located within the creative bounds of storytelling variety of pathways towards radically disordered ways of thinking about and relating to other animals Over 14 chapters authors describe more liberatory relational reconfigurations playing out in the present and undertake conceptual imaginative and embodied explorations of liberatory futures The chapters are united by a common commitment to heterotopic disturbance to contesting and subverting the anthropo capitalo centric space in which we live Each chapter approaches this subversion in its own way using prefiguration restorying speculation radical imagination and combinations thereof to disturb or shatter orders explore the kinds of liberation and resistance their disturbance demonstrates demands or embodies and ultimately illustrate exactly what would or could happen to all the animals Heterotopia Radical Imagination and Shattering Orders will appeal to scholars students and individuals interested not only in challenging normalised binaries hierarchies and orders of value both human and nonhuman but in creating and realising liberatory alternatives Scholar activists activists professionals working in animal advocacy and anyone undertaking activities aimed at radically changing how other animals are understood and used will also find inspiration new insights and information that enhance their current methods and approaches Some readers may also find simply confirmation and comfort in the knowledge that so many others are working in solidarity with the disordered belief that shattering the A IC is possible

The Plague Dogs. With Illustrations and Diagrams by A. Wainwright Richard Adams, 1977

On God and Dogs Stephen H. Webb, 1998-01-15 Many of us keep pet animals we rely on them for companionship and unconditional love For some people their closest relationships may be with their pets In the wake of the animal rights movement some ethicists have started to re-examine this relationship and to question the rights of humans to own other sentient beings in this way In this engaging and thought provoking book Stephen

Webb brings a Christian perspective to bear on the subject of our responsibility to animals looked at through the lens of our relations with pets especially dogs Webb argues that the emotional bond with companion animals should play a central role in the way we think about animals in general and against the more extreme animal liberationists defends the intermingling of the human and animal worlds He tries to imagine what it would be like to treat animals as a gift from God and indeed argues that not only are animals a gift for us but they give to us we need to attend to their giving and return their gifts appropriately Throughout the book he insists that what Christians call grace is present in our relations with animals just as it is with other humans Grace is the inclusive and expansive power of God's love to create and sustain relationships of real mutuality and reciprocity and Webb unfolds the implications of the recognition that animals too participate in God's abundant grace Webb's thesis affirms and persuasively defends many of the things that pet lovers feel instinctively that their relationships with their companion animals are meaningful and important and that their pets have value and worth in themselves in the eyes of God His book will appeal to a broad audience of thoughtful Christians and animal lovers
