Mediterranean studies flourish in literary and cultural studies but concepts of the Mediterranean and the theories and methods they use are very disparate This is because the Mediterranean is not a simple geographical or historical unity but a multiplicity a network of highly interconnected elements each of which is different and individual Talking about Mediterranean literature raises the question of whether the connectivity of Mediterranean literature can or should be limited in some way by constructing an inside and an outside of the Mediterranean What kind of connectivity and fragmentation do literary texts produce how do they build and interrupt references to the real to fictional forms of representation to history but also to other texts and discourses how do they create and deny communication and how do they engage with and reflect literary and non literary concepts of the Mediterranean These and other questions are considered and discussed in the over twenty contributions gathered in this volume Garlic, Mint, & Sweet Basil Jean-Claude Izzo, 2013-05-09 Available for the first time in English in Howard Curtis's brilliant translation this collection of personal essays shows Izzo at his most contemplative and insightful He writes beautifully about the city he loved the sea to which he belonged and the literary movement that made him famous

Rethinking the City Maria Filomena Molder, Nélío Conceição, Nuno Fonseca, 2024-12-12 Interdisciplinary in approach this book employs the key concepts of fragmentation and reconfiguration to consider the ways in which human experience and artistic practice can engage with and respond to the disintegration that characterises modern cities Asking how we might unsettle and decrypt the homogeneous images of cities created by processes linked to capitalism and globalisation it invites us to consider the possibility of reimagining and rethinking the urban spaces we inhabit An exploration of the complex relationship between aesthetics the arts and the city Rethinking the City Reconfiguration and Fragmentation will appeal to scholars across various disciplines including philosophy urban sociology and geography anthropology political theory and visual and media studies

Total Chaos Jean-Claude Izzo, 2018-06-07 Fabio Montale is the perfect protagonist in this city of melancholy beauty A disenchanting cop with an inimitable talent for living who turns his back on a police force marred by corruption and racism and in the name of friendship takes the fight against the mafia into his own hands Just as Raymond Chandler and James Ellroy made Los Angeles their very own so Mr Izzo has made Marseilles so much more than just another geographical setting The Economist Izzo's ability to describe Marseilles and to make his readers feel the multiracial reality of that city so directly and authentically is fascinating Andrea Camilleri One of the masterpieces of modern noir The Washington Post

A Sun for the Dying Jean-Claude Izzo, 2008-08-31 Rico has been banished to society's margins he has neither a roof over his head nor a steady income on which to depend When a friend and fellow clochard dies of exposure after a night spent in the Paris metro Rico decides to flee the northern cold for his beloved south for Marseilles and the Mediterranean From the celebrated author of the Marseilles Trilogy this is both an affecting on the road novel and a tender exploration of love's power both to heal and to destroy Izzo not only has a keen eye for detail but also digs deep into what makes men weep Time Out New York Our last true romantic Jean-Claude Izzo transmits warmth to his readers as if granting them a mouthful of pure love A Sun for the Dying is beautiful like a black sun tragic and desperate Le Point France Just as Raymond Chandler and James Ellroy made Los Angeles their very own so Mr Izzo has made Marseilles so much more than just another geographical setting The Economist

Transpositions Alison Rice, 2021-10-15 This publication benefited from the support of the Institute for Scholarship in the Liberal Arts at the University of Notre Dame This collective volume concentrates on the concept of transposition exploring its potential as a lens through which to examine recent Francophone literary cinematic theatrical musical and artistic creations that reveal multilingual and multicultural realities The chapters are composed by leading scholars in French and Francophone Studies who engage in interdisciplinary reflections on the ways transcontinental movement has influenced diverse genres It begins with the premise that an attentiveness to migration has inspired writers artists filmmakers playwrights and musicians to engage in new forms of translation in their work Their own diverse backgrounds combine with their awareness of the itineraries of others to have an impact on the innovative languages that emerge in their creative production These contemporary figures realize that migratory actualities must be transposed into different linguistic and cultural contexts in order to be legible and audible in order to be perceptible either for the reader the listener or the viewer The novels films plays works of art and musical pieces that exemplify such transpositions adopt inventive elements that push the limits of formal composition in French This work is therefore often inspiring as it points in evocative ways toward fluid influences and a plurality of interactions that render impossible any static conception of being or belonging
