Literary Location and Dislocation of Myth in the Post/Colonial Anglophone World, 2017-11-01 The English speaking world today is so diverse that readers need a gateway to its many postcolonial narratives and art forms This collection of essays examines this diversity and what brings so many different cultures together Whether Indian Canadian Australasian or Zimbabwean the stories discussed focus on how artists render experiences of separation belonging and loss The histories and transformations postcolonial countries have gone through have given rise to a wide range of myths that retrace their birth evolution and decline Myths have enabled ethnic communities to live together the first section of this collection dwells on stories which can be both inclusive and exclusive under the aegis of nation While certain essays revisit and retell the crucial role women have played in mythical texts like the Mahabharata others discuss how settler colonies return to and reappropriate a past in order to define themselves in the present Crises clashes and conflicts which are at the heart of the second section of this book entail myths of historical and cultural dislocation They appear as breaks in time that call for reconstruction and redefinition a chief instance being the trauma of slavery with its deep geographical and cultural dislocations However the crises that have deprived entire communities of their homeland and their identity are followed by moments of remembrance reconciliation and rebuilding As the term postcolonial suggests the formerly colonized people seek to revisit and re investigate the impact of colonization before committing it to collective memory In a more specifically literary section texts are read as mythopoeia foregrounding the aesthetic and poetic issues in colonial and postcolonial poems and novels The texts explored here study in different ways the process of mythologization through images of location and dislocation The editors of this collection hope that readers worldwide will enjoy reading about the myths that have shaped and continue to shape postcolonial communities and nations

The Complete Concise History of the Slave Trade Olayanju Olajide,2013 This book is written mainly from my experience since my arrival in the United Kingdom in the early 1960s I came to the UK before I came in contact with any Afro American or Caribbean In Nigeria I know some people whose parents originally returned to Nigeria from Brazil and Cuba The names of these great people are household names in Nigeria and particularly in Lagos The more I stay in the UK the more I realise that our people from America and Caribbean have very little knowledge of Africa To my greatest surprise some of them think that Africa is a small country I came to the UK before the slave trade became a common topic It is quite clear from my observation that the history of the slave trade is wrongly taught in overseas as far as it concerns Africa Worse still some of our people here think that the whole of Africa was involved in the slave trade This book is to put forward the authentic history of the slave trade Moreover this book will show clearly the areas affected by the slave trade The aim of the writer of this book is to make the history of the slave trade clear and simple to read The idea is to make the book affordable and available as much as possible in order to study the history in Africa and overseas If the history of the slave trade is taught and studied carefully any such mistakes will be avoided in future

The Memory Effect Russell J.A. Kilbourn, Eleanor Ty, 2014-03-25. The Memory Effect is a collection of essays on the status of memory, individual and collective, cultural and transcultural in contemporary literature, film and other visual media. Contributors look at memory's representation, adaptation, translation and appropriation as well as its mediation and remediation. Memory's irreducibly constructed nature is explored even as its status is reaffirmed as the basis of both individual and collective identity. The book begins with an overview of the field with an emphasis on the question of subjectivity. Under the section title Memory Studies: Theories, Changes and Challenges, these chapters lay the theoretical groundwork for the volume. Section 2, Literature and the Power of Cultural Memory, memorializing focuses on the relation between literature and cultural memory. Section 3, Recuperating Lives: Memory and Life Writing, shifts the focus from literature to autobiography and life writing, especially those lives shaped by trauma and forgotten by history. Section 4, Cinematic Remediations: Memory and History, examines specific films in an effort to account for cinema's intimate and mutually constitutive relationship with memory and history. The final section, Multi-Media Interventions: Television, Video and Collective Memory, considers individual and collective memory in the context of contemporary visual texts at the crossroads of popular and avant-garde cultures.

The Routledge Introduction to Canadian Literature and Illness Jessica Duffin Wolfe, 2025-06-06. The Routledge Introduction to Canadian Literature and Illness considers the key literary and historical frameworks for reading stories about sickness. Transcending disciplinary boundaries, this book analyzes narrative depictions of major epidemics, disastrous injuries, mental and maternal health, medical assistance in dying and the curative effects of decolonization. This accessible and engaging guide illustrates how illness-encompassing states of physical and mental disorder, injury and disruption provide structure and focus to many of the most significant works of English narrative published in Canada. Giving distinct consideration to Indigenous authors who may or may not identify as Canadian and whose representations of illness reflect centuries of colonial violence, this volume offers timely resources to think critically and originally about the Canadian canon for fruitful classroom discussion. Students of both literature and health humanities will find that this book deepens their understanding of literary portrayals of illness and the impact of narrative on concepts of

Shifting the Compass Jeroen Dewulf, Michiel van Kempen, Olf Praamstra, 2012-12-19 While the inclusion of a hybrid perspective to highlight local dynamics has become increasingly common in the analysis of both colonial and postcolonial literature the dominant intercontinental connection in the analysis of this literature has remained with the former motherland The lack of attention to intercontinental connections is particularly deplorable when it comes to the analysis of literature written in the language of a former colonial empire that consisted of a global network of possessions One of these languages is Dutch While the seventeenth century Dutch were relative latecomers in the European colonial expansion they were able to build a network that achieved global dimensions With West India Company WIC operations in New Netherland on the American East Coast the Caribbean Northeastern Brazil and the African West Coast and East India Company VOC operations in South Africa the Malabar Coromandel and the Bengal coast in India Ceylon Sri Lanka Malacca in Malaysia Ayutthaya in Siam Thailand Tainan in Formosa Taiwan Deshima in Japan and the islands of the Southeast Asian archipelago the Dutch achieved dominion over global trade for more than a century Paraphrasing Paul Gilroy one could argue that there was not just a Dutch Atlantic in the seventeenth century but rather a Dutch Oceanus Despite its global scale the intercultural dynamics in the literature that developed in this transoceanic network have traditionally been studied from a Dutch and or a local perspective but rarely from a multi continental one This collection of articles presents new perspectives on Dutch colonial and postcolonial literature by shifting the compass of analysis Naturally an important point of the compass continues to point in the direction of Amsterdam The Hague and Leiden be it due to the use of the Dutch language the importance of Dutch publishers readers media and research centers the memory of Dutch heritage in libraries and archives or the large number of Dutch citizens with roots in the former colonial world Other points of the compass however indicate different directions They highlight the importance of pluricontinental contacts within the Dutch global colonial network and pay specific attention to groups in the Dutch colonial and postcolonial context that have operated through a network of contacts in the diaspora such as the Afro Caribbean the Sephardic Jewish and the Indo European communities phenomenon of contemporary art production dealing with the issue of slavery into a wider interdisciplinary and transcultural context The book covers current case studies focusing on different media and including visual literary and performative approaches of dealing with the history of slavery in West African American and European cultures
