Folktales Told Around the World Richard M. Dorson, 1975 Authentic field recorded texts of over one hundred tales recited by story tellers from forty six cultures around the world collected as a representative sampling of the world s folk traditions Korea and the Politics of Imperialism Chong Ik Eugene Kim, Han-Kyo Kim, Local Government Development in Post-war Japan Michio Muramatsu, Farrukh Iqbal, Ikuo Kume, 2001 This book examines the evolution of intergovernmental relations in postwar Japan These relations are shown to be both complex and dynamic and the Japanese model is revealed as one in which aspects of both central control and local autonomy have co existed with the balance shifting gradually over time towards the latter The Japanese system has helped to maintain broad based economic growth since it has at its core a strongly egalitarian fiscal transfer mechanism At the same time it has proved to be consistent to a much greater extent than previously recognized with political development or progress in the attainment of such political values as liberty personal rights and equality broad participation in public affairs for individuals and communities This is because the national government has proved flexible enough to accommodate although not always with grace or alacrity citizen concerns about the quality of life The Japanese approach to intergovernmental relationships has also been successful in solving coordination problems which often arise between local and central government units and in building capacity to support greater and effective decentralization Coordination problems have been handled through a variety of mechanisms including the practice of agency delegated functions while local capacity issues have been addressed through such practices as the exchange of personnel across different levels of government and the use of attractive compensation and training packages to recruit and retain local staff The Japanese experience thus provides an example of gradual and guided decentralization based on shared responsibilities between local and central governments for mobilizing managing and spending public resources in the pursuit of sustainable development
