Abducted by Circumstance David Madden, 2010 Abducted by Circumstance is a thrilling crime story a dark and complex psychological study a rich contemplation on contemporary life It is also a masterful moral drama about the centuries old conflicts that arise from the juxtaposition of the flesh and spirit Allen Wier author of Tehano David Madden continues to push the envelope of literary fiction in subtle and profoundly sophisticated ways Abducted by Circumstance is a quirky utterly compelling novel in pieces that in its very structure speaks to the work's twenty first century theme how do we find connection in a fragmented world In this new book Madden is at the height of his considerable power Robert Olen Butler In Abducted by Circumstance David Madden offers his readers a unique experience simultaneously terrifying and exhilarating Carol Seaborg makes a risky visit in zero weather to a lighthouse near her house in The Thousand Islands of New York on the Canadian border A self confident attractive woman of about 55 suddenly appears on the observation deck looking out over frozen Lake Ontario Carol admires the woman as her ideal Suddenly the woman disappears apparently abducted by a serial rapist and killer stimulating in Carol an immediate empathy that enhanced by the power of her imagination is so great as to make her unique Carol projects her own emotions imagination and intellect into Glenda's experience To render that empathy and imagination Madden channels everything that the people around her say and do through Carol's perceptions so intimately that he shifts frequently and without transition into her thoughts which focus mostly on the abducted woman whose name newscasters reveal is Glenda Hamilton As Carol imagines Glenda gradually coping with her abductor she speaks directly sometimes out loud to her encouraging her advising her expressing fear for her If Carol's external experiences are passive almost to paralysis her memories reveal that her life has been full of more venturesome relationships and events she once rode across Greece alone on a bicycle than most wives and mothers in their late thirties have Carol's emotions and imagination are highly charged and exquisitely presented The circumstances and relationships of her past and present predispose Carol to empathize with Glenda Carol's own life among a crude remote second husband a somewhat estranged adolescent son a bright five year old daughter a father who is a rather cold philosophy teacher and the strong spiritual presence of her mother who committed suicide is simple and routine The events involving Glenda's disappearance take place during the week before

Carol's second surgery for breast cancer Gradually as she takes late night drives with her little girl visits her ex boyfriend's father in a nursing home drives by her ex lover's house and business and visits the campus where her father is a prominent teacher the reader realizes some pages before Carol herself does that she has been abducted by the circumstances of her life Although it is grounded in the realistic detail of everyday life Abducted by Circumstance is unique in conception style and characterization Madden immerses the reader in an extraordinarily rich and unforgettable psychological experience Thoroughly absorbing from start to finish Abducted by Circumstance explores Carol's troubled psyche with the rare precision and insight that have long distinguished David Madden's fiction Since 1961 each of David Madden's highly praised novels and two books of short stories has had some quality of uniqueness among them Cassandra Singing Sharpshooter A Novel of the Civil War Bijou and The Suicide's Wife Twice nominated for the Pulitzer Prize David Madden received the Robert Penn Warren Award from the Fellowship of Southern Writers The Last Bizarre Tale David Madden, 2014-08-10 Though he has authored more than eleven novels including Cassandra Singing The Suicide's Wife Abducted by Circumstance and the recent London Bridge in Plague and Fire David Madden has been publishing short stories for all six decades of his active career The Last Bizarre Tale consists of works that appeared in journals but that have not appeared together as a collection Madden used two stories The Singer and Second Look Presents the Rape of an Indian Brave as chapters in his 1980 novel On the Big Wind The Headless Girl's Mother was first published as a chapter in a serialized novel entitled Hair of the Dog Two other stories developed out of longer versions of Madden's novels A Demon in My View is part of a sequel not yet published to Bijou All of the stories in David Madden's third collection are distinguished by variety of content and by shifting styles and often innovative techniques They are to varying degrees and in various ways bizarre in their characters and their relationships in the kinds of internal and external conflicts and in locales and themes The title story The Last Bizarre Tale involving a corpse that has hung on a hook in a funeral home garage for decades is evocative of Poe and in its dark grotesque humor Flannery O'Connor and Carson McCullers Process is as important as product to David Madden writes editor James Perkins and one can learn as much about the process of writing as about the human condition by a careful reading of these stories Agee at 100 Michael A. Lofaro, 2012-02-25 Drawn mainly from the centennial anniversary symposium on James Agee held at the University of Tennessee in the fall of 2009 the essays of Agee at 100 are as diverse in topic and purpose as is Agee's work itself Often devalued during his life by those who thought his breadth a hindrance to greatness Agee's achievements as a poet novelist journalist essayist critic documentarian and screenwriter are now more fully recognized With its use of previously unknown and recently recovered materials as well as established works this groundbreaking new collection is a timely contribution to the resurgence of interest in Agee's significance The essays in this collection range from the scholarly to the personal and all offer insight into Agee's writing his cultural influence and ultimately Agee himself Dwight Garner opens with his reflective essay on Why Agee Matters Several essays present almost entirely new material on Agee Paul

Ashdown writes on Agee's book reviews which unlike Agee's film criticism have received scant attention. With evidence from two largely unstudied manuscripts Jeffrey Couchman sets the record straight on Agee's contribution to the screenplay for The African Queen and delves as well into his television miniseries screenplay Mr Lincoln. John Wranovics treats Agee's lesser known films the documentaries In the Street and The Quiet One and the Filipino epic Genghis Khan. Jeffrey J Folks wrestles with Agee's culture of repudiation while James A Crank investigates his perplexing treatment of race in his prose. Jesse Graves and Andrew Crooke provide new analyses of Let Us Now Praise Famous Men and Michael A Lofaro and Philip Stogdon both discuss Lofaro's recently restored text of A Death in the Family. David Madden closes the collection with his short story Seeing Agee in Lincoln an imagined letter from Agee to his longtime confidante Father Flye. The contributors to Agee at 100 utilize materials new and old to reveal the true importance of Agee's range of cultural sensibility and literary ability. Film scholars will also find this collection particularly engrossing as will anyone fascinated by the work of the author rightly deemed the sovereign prince of the English language. The Southern Review, 2010 Tennessee Historical Quarterly, 2015 The Voice of James M. Cain also taught journalism at various colleges in Maryland wrote editorials for the New York World and was for a brief time managing editor at The New Yorker. Flory, 2006-06-22 When the first edition of David Madden's A Primer of the Novel For Readers and Writers was published more than twenty five years ago there were no other books of its kind available. Since then many authors and editors have produced works that attempt the same comprehensive coverage of the genre. However these works tend to be either written solely for writers or solely for readers. More often than not those written for readers tend to be aimed at advanced students or critics of the novel. In this revised edition David Madden, Charles Bane and Sean Flory have produced an updated work that is intended for a general readership including writers teachers and students who are just being introduced to the genre. This unique handbook provides a definition and history of the novel a description of early narratives and a discussion of critical approaches to this literary form. A Primer of the Novel also identifies terms definitions commentary and examples in the form of quotations for almost 50 types of novels and 15 artistic techniques. A chronology of narrative in general and of the novel in particular from 850 B C to the present is also included along with indexes to authors titles novel types and techniques as well as a selective bibliography of criticism. Although all novel types present in the first edition are still represented many have become more clearly defined. This revised edition also cites several types of novels that did not appear in the first edition such as the graphic novel and the novel of

Magical Realism As well as keeping all of the original examples from representative texts the authors have added new examples of more recent works While this book was conceived for a general audience it will be a valuable resource for students teachers and libraries It may be used in any English literature courses at any level including graduate and is suited for creative writing courses as well With its clear and immediately accessible features this handbo Arkansas Review ,2008
