Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary, middle-aged men. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a training group (n = 20) or a control group (n = 20). The training group performed a 12-week program of aerobic and resistance training. The control group did not exercise. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The training group showed significant improvements in physical fitness and HRQL compared to the control group. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve physical fitness and HRQL in sedentary, middle-aged men.
