A Roadmap to Intercultural Proficiency Frauke Bender, 2022-06-17 This book describes the linkage between the worlds of culture and inclusion based on the concept of intercultural proficiency IP It explains the building blocks of intercultural proficiency by providing a conceptual framework that combines and structures the existing knowledge base and extends it by incorporating the author's own empirical research work The framework presents not only a comprehensive and universal model based on existing concepts but also implications for learning and teaching strategies This book and the IP concept provide guidance for students early working professionals as well as seasoned working professionals on how to thrive and succeed when interacting with different cultures It allows us to think outside our narrow cultural boundaries and decode complex cross cultural interactions Thus the IP approach can be applied in academic and corporate settings as it facilitates potential for solution of the issues associated with multicultural workforces and global operations of organizations

Intercultural Horizons Volume III Lavinia Bracci, Nevin C. Brown, Eliza J. Nash, 2015-10-05 This volume brings together a representative set of the papers given at the third annual Intercultural Horizons conference held in Siena Italy in October 2013 The conference attracted presenters and attendees from a variety of nations throughout five continents The papers included in this volume are drawn from a series of conference sessions in which academicians and practitioners in the field offered theoretical analyses case studies and other perspectives on intercultural studies civic engagement and related topics The volume is divided into four sections Theoretical Considerations of Intercultural Competence and Interculturalism Intercultural Development and Assessment Practical Examples and Research Civic Engagement in International and Culturally Diverse Contexts and Intercultural Education and Training The reader will find that most of the papers address a variety of intercultural topics beyond their specific chapter designations In particular the theme of second language acquisition education and use was an overarching theme that emerged from a large number of papers and presentations specifically with regards to the complexities now faced by intercultural educators and researchers as a result of the increasing dominance of English as a lingua franca both in academe and many nations

Intercultural Horizons Volume II Lavinia Bracci, Nevin C. Brown, Eliza J. Nash, 2014-07-08 This volume features a collection of papers from the second annual Intercultural Horizons conference held in October 2012 in New York City USA The 2012 conference was the second in what is becoming an annual series of meetings and the present volume therefore is a companion to one issued last year by Cambridge Scholars Publishing Intercultural Horizons Best Practices in Intercultural Competence Development 2012 The papers included in this volume reflect a diversity of approaches both to intercultural education in the North American setting and to its application in service learning and related contexts in diverse cultural settings in other nations Our authors provide faculty and student perspectives primarily from the level of postsecondary education but including a look as well at intercultural education at the primary level Many of the papers focus in one way or another on issues of curriculum teaching and learning in relation to developing intercultural competence in students in North American colleges and universities particularly though not exclusively through the use of service learning All of the papers touch in one way or another on another important development now affecting almost all institutions of higher education in North America and increasingly in other nations worldwide that of the university's engagement with the community During the past thirty years such engagement has moved from the periphery to the core of many North American colleges and universities Similar efforts are now emerging among many Asian universities and in Europe as well The paper in this volume on the Polisocial initiative at the Politecnico di Milano in Italy is a good example of how the theme of university community engagement is taking hold in a city and nation facing similar intercultural and economic challenges to those in North America and serves as a preview of themes the International Center for Intercultural Exchange hopes to explore in its future conferences www.ticfie.com

The Master Key to Intercultural Management Gebhard Deissler, 2011-02-15 Scientific Study from the year 2011 in the subject Pedagogy Intercultural Pedagogy course Interkulturelles Management language English abstract Transculture or the transcultural approach as an extension and an enhancement of the intercultural approach is the master key that unlocks any culture. It is a cultural superhighway and lingua franca destined for the ushering in and the sustainable management of the global age. The intercultural approach fits the age of the 20th century where cultural interfacing was still more overseeable. But in the 21st century the players will multiply and interfacing will be less overseeable and controllable. Therefore the world needs an approach to culture and its management that can deal with myriads of diversity and cultural diversity in particular simultaneously in a holistic way: a culture general approach that functions as a cultural autopilot to effectively navigate global diversity at all scales in all shapes, forms and types.

Transcultural Realities Virginia H. Milhouse, Molefi Kete Asante, Peter O. Nwosu, 2001-07-24

Transcultural Realities is an important collection of essays written by an outstanding cast of critical scholars who discuss the importance of transculture in interdisciplinary contexts. The primary goal of the contributors is to help the reader to understand that a state of community or harmony cannot be achieved in the world until we are all ready to accept different cultural forms, norms and orientations. In this book transculture is defined as a form of culture created not from within separate spheres but in the holistic forms of diverse cultures. It is based on the principle that a single culture in and of itself is incomplete and requires interaction and dialogue with other cultures. Transcultural Realities is divided into five parts: Transcultural issues in international and cross cultural contexts; Historical and religious struggles within and between nations; Socially constructed racial identities and their consequences for transculturalism in the United States; The transformative effects of sojourning in diverse cultural environments; The fundamentals of transcultural research.

Editors Virginia H. Milhouse, Molefi Kete Asante and Peter O. Nwosu set out to meet three specific needs. First that the book's interdisciplinary approach to theory and practice in cross cultural relations will make it an important book for several fields of study including intercultural and interpersonal communication, international relations, human relations, psychology, anthropology, philosophy and sociology. Second that the book will be a reference tool for scholars of transcultural research providing up to date information on cross cultural relations that are transcultural in nature. And finally through the use of research is critical to a fuller understanding of cross cultural relations in a transcultural world.

Intercultural Horizons Volume IV Lavinia Bracci, Nevin C. Brown, Eliza J. Nash, 2016-12-14

This volume originates from the fourth and fifth Intercultural Horizons conferences held in New York and Sardinia respectively. It reflects a diverse array of research, case studies and theoretical reflections on intercultural studies, civic engagement and varied perspectives on migration issues in the Mediterranean region. The book will be of interest to a broad audience both within and beyond academia including researchers of intercultural education and communication, service learning and related issues, college and university administrators responsible for intercultural and service learning initiatives and students enrolled in intercultural and service learning courses. The papers within will also be useful to persons who serve as intercultural mediators including trainers and coaches involved in intercultural studies in business and other non academic settings.

Reinventing Intercultural Education Neal Dreamson, 2016-11-25 Most existing books in the fields of multicultural or intercultural education have been written based on anthropologists cultural dimensions which presume culture is a fixed entity Reinventing Intercultural Education is the first book to review multiple cultures and religions from a metaphysical understanding It argues that intercultural value interactions can be managed and taught in a way that facilitates individuals to reveal how they are metaphysically positioned within intercultural value networks This book proposes a metaphysical understanding of interculturality by reviewing popular cultural and religious narratives found in multicultural society By doing so it develops an alternative pedagogy for multicultural education founded on the concept of intercultural hermeneutics Beginning with a critical review of multicultural policies and existing models of multicultural education Dreamson advocates the necessity of an intercultural approach to multicultural education He then moves on to argue for the methodological aspects of interculturality by reviewing and adopting philosophical hermeneutics theories Throughout the book it is argued that values incarnated as a cultural framework are networked and interact via our minds to sustain our intercultural realities Furthermore when intercultural interactions transpire which is the goal of multicultural education we can see a larger part of the world that in turn helps us cultivate ourselves for further intercultural interactions The book should be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students engaged in the study of multicultural education the philosophy of education religious pluralism religious education cultural studies theology and indigenous education Intercultural Horizons Eliza J. language English abstract Culture has become so broad a term that it is almost impossible to find the right angle or an all-encompassing example to begin this article with Although Hall stated that culture is a word that has so many meanings already that one more can do it no harm it is not the aim of this article to contribute yet another meaning Rather than adding to the vast amount of research on what culture is and where it comes from this article aims at making the case for why culture matters and how it can be properly analysed The view put forth in this vein suggests that the analysis of cultural issues which lies at the heart of intercultural communication is one of the most important scientific endeavours of contemporary times Prior to elaborating on the details of this endeavour it is necessary to address two crucial facts that emphasize the relevance of the applied approach as well as of intercultural communication in general First as numerous researchers and scholars have repeatedly pointed out the globalisation is expected to continue at even faster rate than before As a result of immigration that comes along with the process of globalisation and that will continue to come along despite current efforts to restrict it Western societies will undergo severe changes Evolving concepts such as super or hyper diversity acknowledge this development and will contest the way societies and nations are perceived It is beyond doubt that a more sophisticated understanding of cultures is essential the more the globalisation shapes every aspect of modern life If an increasingly diverse world will eventually lead to a clash of civilizations or to their ultimate fusion has to remain unanswered What both outlooks have in common however is that they rely on intercultural competence in some ways Whether to avoid cultural conflicts or to contribute to a so called supra culture intercultural competence is the key to unlock the potentials of diversity To sum up the more the globalisation and in particular its cultural by products impact virtual all levels of societies the more cross cultural cooperation and therefore intercultural competence is needed In order to succeed in building up this competence however knowledge has to be acquired through the meticulous analysis of cultural issues This article is an attempt to fulfil that ambition

Making the Most of Intercultural Education Virginie Trémion,2015-04-01 Many different words are used to deal with diversity in education such as cross cultural meta cultural polycultural multicultural and intercultural as well as terms like global and international Some are trendier than others some more political Some of these words are used in certain parts of the world while others are rejected This volume concentrates on the notion of the intercultural and makes sense of its polysemy in education As such in research and practice my intercultural may not mean the same as your intercultural My intercultural might have different values and ideologies than your intercultural The contributors also propose considerations on how to make the most of renewed critical and reflexive approaches to intercultural education in a breadth of contexts and countries including Argentina Australia France Iceland Tunisia and the UK The book will appeal to students and teachers as well as to confirmed researchers who will gain inspiration and new insights into the increasingly contested notion of the intercultural in education
