Revisiting Education in the New Latino Diaspora Edmund Hamann, Stanton

Wortham, Enrique G. Murillo, 2015-04-01 For most of US history most of America's Latino population has lived in nine states California Arizona New Mexico Colorado Texas Illinois Florida New Jersey and New York It follows that most education research that considered the experiences of Latino families with US schools came from these same states But in the last 30 years Latinos have been resettling across the US attending schools and creating new patterns of inter ethnic interaction in educational settings Much of this interaction with this New Latino Diaspora has been initially tentative and improvisational but too often it has left intact the patterns of lower educational success that have prevailed in the traditional Latino diaspora Revisiting Education in the New Latino Diaspora is an extensive update with all new material of the groundbreaking volume Education in the New Latino Diaspora Ablex Publishing that these same editors produced in 2002 This volume consciously includes a number of junior scholars e g C Allen Lynn Soria Colomer Amanda Morales Rebecca Lowenhaupt Adam Sawyer and more established ones Frances Contreras Jason Irizarry Socorro Herrera Linda Harklau as it considers empirical cases from Washington State to Georgia from the Mid Atlantic to the Great Plains where rural suburban and urban communities start their second or third decades of responding to a previously unprecedented growth in newcomer Latino populations With excuses of surprise and improvisational strategies less persuasive as Latino newcomer populations become less new this volume considers the persistence the anomie and pragmatism of Latino newcomers on the one hand with the variously enlightened paternalistic dismissive and xenophobic responses of educators and education systems on the other With foci as personal as accounts of growing up as an adoptee in a mixed race family and the testimonio of a successful undocumented college graduate to the macro scale of examining state level education policies and with an age range from early childhood education to the university level this volume insists that the worlds of education research and migration studies can both gain from considering the educational responses in the last two decades to the newish Latino presence in the 41 U S states that have not long been the home to large well established Latino populations but that now enroll 2.5 million Latino students in K 12 alone Timely and compelling Revisiting Education in the NLD offers new insight into the Latino Diaspora in the US just as the discussions regarding immigration policy bilingual education and immigrant rights are gaining steam Drawing from a variety of perspectives contributing authors interrogate the very concept of the diaspora The wide range of research in this volume thoughtfully illustrates the nuanced phenomena and provides rich descriptions of complex situations No longer a simple question of immigration the book considers language and legal status in schools international adoption teacher preparation and the relationships between established and relatively new Latino communities in a variety of contexts Comprised of rich thoughtful research Revisiting Education provides a fascinating window into the context of Latino reception nationwide Rebecca M Callahan Associate Professor University of Texas Austin As the leader of a 10 years and counting research study in Mexico that has identified and interviewed transnationally mobile students with prior experience in U S schools I can affirm that in addition to students with backgrounds in California Arizona Texas and Colorado migration links now join schools in Georgia Minnesota Oklahoma Alabama etc to schools in Mexico For that reason and many others I am excited to see this far ranging interdisciplinary new text that considers policy implementation through lenses as different as teacher preparation Latino adoption into culturally mixed families the fate of Latino newcomers in low density districts where there are few like them and the misuse of Spanish teachers as interpreters This is an relevant book for American educators and scholars but also for readers beyond U S borders Hamann Wortham Murillo and their contributors should be celebrated for this fine new collection Dr Victor Ziga Dean of Research and Extension Universidad de Monterrey

Grant, Elisabeth Zwiernick, 2014-08-01 In urban education urban is a floating signifier that is imbued with meaning positive or negative by its users Urban can be used to refer to both the geographical context of a city and a sense of less than most often in relation to race and or socioeconomic status Watson 2011 For Noblit and Pink 2007 Urban rather is a generalization as much about geography as it is about the idea that urban centers have problems problems of too many people too much poverty too much crime and violence and ultimately too little hope p xv Recently urban education scholars such as Anyon 2005 Pink and Noblit 2007 Blanchett Klinger and Harry 2009 and Lipman 2013 have elucidated the social construction of oppression and privilege for urban students teachers schools families and communities using intersectionality theories Building on their work we see the need for an edited collection that would look across the different realms of urban education theorizing identity markers in urban education education in urban schools and communities thinking intersectionally in teacher education higher education educational policies urban spaces seeking to better understand each topic using an intersectional lens Such a collection might serve to conceptually frame or provide methodological tools or act as a reference point for scholars and educators who are trying to address urban educational issues in light of identities and power Secondly we argue that education questions and or problems beg to be conceptualized and analyzed through more than one identity axis Policies and practices that do not take into account urban students intertwining identity markers risk reproducing patterns of privilege and oppression perpetuating stereotypes and failing at the task we care most deeply about supporting all students learning across a holistic range of academic personal and justice oriented outcomes Can educational policies and practices address the social justice issues faced in urban schools and communities today We argue that doing intersectional research and implementing educational policies and practices guided by these frameworks can help improve the fit Particular attention needs to be paid to intersectionality as a lens for educational theory policy and practice As urban educators we would be wise to consider the intertwining of these identity axes in order to better analyze educational issues and engage in teaching learning research and policymaking that are better tuned to the needs of diverse students families and communities
