What did you learn?

What?

Antigen-antibody reactions in human transfusions are the basis used to select compatible human blood groups. Among other things, only red cells from persons whose antibodies do not react with transfused blood, and their red cells do not react with recipient antibodies, should be transfused. For this purpose, we must determine which red cells react with which other donor blood cells in transfusion.

Activity 1 -- Red Blood Cells and Antibodies
