Observing Human Traits Lab

Background: Physical traits are observable characteristics that are determined by genes. Genes are specific segments of DNA located on chromosomes that code for a trait. Genes have two or more variations called alleles. Some alleles are dominant and dominant alleles will be expressed on organism's phenotype or physical appearance. Recessive alleles may be present in an organism but not expressed in the presence of a dominant allele for the same gene. Recessive traits are expressed when there are two recessive alleles present in the genotype (the "code" for the trait).

Keep in mind that it's not always quite this simple. There are other factors that influence expression, and most traits have several genes that influence expression. This is introduced in dominant and recessive traits. Let's get started!

Directions: Circle the phenotype you have for each of the following human traits.
