Michael F. Ashby, Tony Evans, NA Fleck, J.W. Hutchinson, H.N.G. Wadley, L. J. Gibson, 2000-07-30 Metal foams are at the forefront of technological development for the automotive aerospace and other weight dependent industries They are formed by various methods but the key facet of their manufacture is the inclusion of air or other gaseous pockets in the metal structure The fact that gas pockets are present in their structure provides an obvious weight advantage over traditionally cast or machined solid metal components The unique structure of metal foams also opens up more opportunities to improve on more complex methods of producing parts with space inclusions such as sand casting This guide provides information on the advantages metal foams possess and the applications for which they may prove suitable Offers a concise description of metal foams their manufacture and their advantages in industry Provides engineers with answers to pertinent questions surrounding metal foams Satisfies a major need in the market for information on the properties performance and applications of these materials Sandwich Structures 7: Advancing with Sandwich Structures and Materials O.T. Thomsen, E.

Bozhevolnaya, A. Lyckegaard, 2006-01-16 Sandwich structures represent a special form of a laminated composite material or structural elements where a relatively thick lightweight and compliant core material separates thin stiff and strong face sheets The faces are usually made of laminated polymeric based composite materials and typically the core can be a honeycomb type material a polymeric foam or balsa wood The faces and the core are joined by adhesive bonding which ensures the load transfer between the sandwich constituent parts The result is a special laminate with very high bending stiffness and strength to weight ratios Sandwich structures are being used successfully for a variety of applications such as spacecraft aircraft train and car structures wind turbine blades boat ship superstructures boat ship hulls and many others The overall objective of the 7th International Conference on Sandwich Structures ICSS 7 is to provide a forum for the presentation and discussion of the latest research and technology on all aspects of sandwich structures and materials spanning the entire spectrum of research to applications in all the fields listed above Structural Composites ,1990
