Don't Build, Rebuild Aaron Betsky,2024-11-05 In a time of climate crisis and housing shortages a bold visionary call to replace current wasteful construction practices with an architecture of reuse As climate change has escalated into a crisis the reuse of existing structures is the only way to even begin to preserve our wood sand silicon and iron let alone stop belching carbon monoxide into the air Our housing crisis means that we need usable buildings now more than ever but architect and critic Aaron Betsky shows that new construction often seeking to maximize profits rather than resources often soulless in its feel is not the answer Whenever possible it is better to repair recycle renovate and reuse not only from an environmental perspective but culturally and artistically as well Architectural reuse is as old as civilization itself In the streets of Europe you can find fragments from the Roman Empire More recently marginalized communities from New York to Detroit queer people looking for places to gather or cruise punks looking to make loud music artists and displaced people looking for space to work and live have taken over industrial spaces created then abandoned by capitalism forging a unique style in the process Their methods from urban mining to dumpster diving now inform architects transforming old structures today Betsy shows us contemporary imaginative reuse throughout the world the Mexican housing authority transforming concrete slums into well serviced apartments the MassMOCA museum built out of old textile mills the squatted city of Christiania in Copenhagen fashioned from an old army base Project Heidelberg in Detroit All point towards a new circular economy of reuse built from the ashes of the capitalist economy of consumption
