

SHAPE OF THE WORLD

*Have you ever been surprised that accurate maps precede planes and satellites?
Accurate world maps came about earlier than many think, yet they were a long, long way coming.*

150 AD

Claudius Ptolemy, Alexandria, Egypt

The first to use positions of latitude and longitude based on astronomical observations. Ptolemy's book "Geographica" listed the positions of 8,345 sites and probably also included maps.

Lost for centuries, but rediscovered and reconstructed from the list of coordinates in the 14th Century, we don't know the exact extent of the original maps.

1050

Unknown monk, Saint-Sever Monastery, France

A classic Medieval "T-O map", this depicts Asia (right half), Europe (upper left) and Africa (lower left). Its main objective, however, was not to explain the world but the Bible. More prominently than continents, it features Jerusalem and Calvary (center), the Biblical lands, the Red Sea, Sinai, the Garden of Eden and Paradise.

Originally oriented with east up, Eden was at top center, closest to the Heavens.
