Richard Lowe, Wolfgang Schnotz, 2008 This book explores the effectiveness of electronic based learning materials by a team of international experts Computer Animation and Simulation 2001 Nadia Magnenat-Thalmann, Daniel

Thalmann, 2012-12-06 This volume contains the research papers presented at the 12th Eurographics Workshop on Computer Animation and Simulation Manchester UK September 2 3 2001 The workshop is an international forum for research in computer animation and simulation This year we choose to give a special focus on the modelling and animation of complex phenomena This includes the modelling of virtual creature from their body parts to the control of their behavior and the animation of natural phenomena such as water smoke fire and vegetation The call for papers required submission of the full papers for review and each paper was reviewed by at least 2 members of the international program committee and additional reviewers Based on the reviews 16 papers were accepted We added to the final program an invited talk by Jos Stam We wish to thank all reviewers for their time and effort in working within the rigid constraints of the tight schedule thereby making it possible to publish this volume in time for the workshop We also thank the authors for their contributions to the workshop without whom this unique forum for animation and simulation work would not exist Animated 'Worlds' Suzanne

Buchan, 2007-02-20 What do we mean by the term animation when we are discussing film Is it a technique A style A way of seeing or experiencing a world that has little relation to our own lived experience of the world In Animated Worlds contributors reveal the astonishing variety of worlds animation confronts us with Essays range from close film analyses to phenomenological and cognitive approaches spectatorship performance literary theory and digital aesthetics Authors include Vivian Sobchack Richard Weihe Thomas Lamarre Paul Wells and Karin Wehn Stop Motion: Craft Skills for Model

Animation Susannah Shaw, 2012-07-26 To make great animation you need to know how to control a whole world how to make a character how to make that character live and be happy or sad You need to create four walls around them a landscape the sun and moon a whole life for them You have to get inside that puppet and first make it live then make it perform Susannah Shaw provides the first truly practical introduction to the craft skills of model animation This is a vital book in the development of model animation which following the success of Aardman s first full length film Chicken Run is now at the forefront of modern animation Illustrated in full colour throughout you are shown step by step how to create successful model animation Starting with some basic exercises you will learn about developing a story making models creating set and props the mechanics of movement filming postproduction and how to set about finding that elusive first job in a modern studio Susannah Shaw is Programme Development Manager for the Animated Exeter festival She was head of the Bristol Animation Course from 1996 to 2000 at the University of the West of England and former camera assistant at Aardman working on A Close Shave among other films

Perception of visual advertising in different media: from attention to distraction, persuasion, preference and memory Jaana Simola, Jukka Hyönä, Jarmo Kuisma, 2015-02-24 This Research Topic aims to showcase the state of the art in visual advertising research Although visual processes are a central component of consumer behavior they have been largely neglected in models explaining consumer perception of advertising Rather than being the mere input into the cognitive or affective systems the visual processes both voluntarily and involuntarily affect the amount and quality of information that is passed into further mental processing Moreover advertisements provide a well designed rich and stimulating environment to study visual processes in real life conditions Consumers encounter thousands of advertisement messages per day Previous research on visual perception of advertising mostly considers print advertising However advertising messages increasingly appear in a variety of formats and in different media Part of these messages are still conveyed through traditional media such as newspapers magazines television as well as outdoor and supermarket advertising In addition the amount and diversity of visual marketing stimuli is rapidly growing in terms of different advertising formats appearing in online and social media smartphones and tablets This challenges the marketing professionals and academics to better understand the impact of marketing on consumers At the same time the technical development of the research methods allows better opportunities to investigate advertising perception in different environments Traditionally papers investigating the psychological processes underlying advertising perception are published in journals widespread across different disciplines such as marketing applied psychology and human computer interaction journals With this Research Topic we aim to create a forum in which experts in different fields define the state of the art and future directions of the research on the visual aspects of marketing We include reviews and original research papers involving both empirical and theoretical studies on visual perception of advertising across different media

Animation in Croatia Midhat Ajanović, 2024-12-19 This book provides a comprehensive account of Croatian animation history as well as an analysis of background factors such as political and social circumstances and cultural heritage that influenced the great international success of Croatian animators between the 1960s and 1980s The book focuses on the history of the Zagreb School of Animated Film which produced dozens of extremely significant animated films between the 1960s and 1980s which constituted an important epoch in the development of film animation as an artistic form It provides a case study of three important films Dnevnik by Nedeljko Dragic Don Kihot by Vladimir Kristl and Koncert za masinsku pusku by Dusan Vukotic The book also covers modern Croatian animation developed after the independence of the country This book will be of great interest to academics students and professionals working and researching in the field of animation

Cox, Andrea Benucci, R. Clay Reid, 2015-11-18 Vision is the process of extracting behaviorally relevant information from patterns of light that fall on retina as the eyes sample the outside world Traditionally nonhuman primates macaque monkeys in particular have been viewed by many as the animal model of choice for investigating the neuronal substrates of visual processing not only because their visual systems closely mirror our own but also because it is often assumed that simpler brains lack advanced visual processing machinery However this narrow view of visual neuroscience ignores the fact that vision is widely distributed throughout the animal kingdom enabling a wide repertoire of complex behaviors in species from insects to birds fish and mammals Recent years have seen a resurgence of interest in alternative animal models for vision research especially rodents This resurgence is partly due to the availability of increasingly powerful experimental approaches e g optogenetics and two photon imaging that are challenging to apply to their full potential in primates Meanwhile even more phylogenetically distant species such as birds fish and insects have long been workhorse animal models for gaining insight into the core computations underlying visual processing In many cases these animal models are valuable precisely because their visual systems are simpler than the primate visual system Simpler systems are often easier to understand and studying a diversity of neuronal systems that achieve similar functions can focus attention on those computational principles that are universal and essential This Research Topic provides a survey of the state of the art in the use of animal models of visual functions that are alternative to macaques It includes original research methods articles reviews and opinions that exploit a variety of animal models including rodents birds fishes and insects as well as small New World monkey the marmoset to investigate visual function The experimental approaches covered by these studies range from psychophysics and electrophysiology to histology and genetics testifying to the richness and depth of visual neuroscience in non macaque species Learning from Animations in Science Education Len Unsworth, 2020-11-10 This book examines educational semiotics and the representation of knowledge in school science It discusses the strategic integration of animation in science education It explores how learning through the creation of science animations takes place as well as how animation can be used in assessing student s science learning Science education animations are ubiquitous in a variety of different online sites including perhaps the most popularly accessed YouTube site and are also routinely included as digital augmentations to science textbooks They are popular with students and teachers and are a prominent feature of contemporary science teaching The proliferation of various kinds of science animations and the ready accessibility of sophisticated resources for creating them have emphasized the importance of research into various areas the nature of the semiotic construction of knowledge in the animation design the development of critical interpretation of available animations the strategic selection and use of animations to optimize student learning student creation of science animations and using animation in assessing student science learning This book brings together new developments in these research agendas to further multidisciplinary perspectives on research to enhance the design and pedagogic use of animation in school science education Chapter 1 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com
