The Science and Applications of Microbial Genomics Institute of Medicine,Board on Global Health,Forum on Microbial Threats,2013-05-02 Over the past several decades new scientific tools and approaches for detecting microbial species have dramatically enhanced our appreciation of the diversity and abundance of the microbiota and its dynamic interactions with the environments within which these microorganisms reside The first bacterial genome was sequenced in 1995 and took more than 13 months of work to complete Today a microorganism s entire genome can be sequenced in a few days Much as our view of the cosmos was forever altered in the 17th century with the invention of the telescope these genomic technologies and the observations derived from them have fundamentally transformed our appreciation of the microbial world around us On June 12 and 13 2012 the Institute of Medicine s IOM s Forum on Microbial Threats convened a public workshop in Washington DC to discuss the scientific tools and approaches being used for detecting and characterizing microbial species and the roles of microbial genomics and metagenomics to better understand the culturable and unculturable microbial world around us Through invited presentations and discussions participants examined the use of microbial genomics to explore the diversity evolution and adaptation of microorganisms in a wide variety of environments the molecular mechanisms of disease emergence and epidemiology and the ways that genomic technologies are being applied to disease outbreak trace back and microbial surveillance Points that were emphasized by many participants included the need to develop robust standardized sampling protocols the importance of having the appropriate metadata data analysis and data management challenges and information sharing in real time The Science and Applications of Microbial Genomics summarizes this workshop

Ballistic Trauma Peter F. Mahoney,James Ryan,Adam J. Brooks,C. William Schwab,2005-12-27 Ballistic Trauma A Practical Guide provides a concise guide to the clinical and operational issues surrounding the management of the ballistic casualty The book crystallizes the knowledge and experience accrued by those dealing with ballistic trauma on a regular basis and extends this to those who have to manage these patients on an occasional basis only This book is aimed at all medical and paramedical personnel involved in the care of patients with ballistic injury It will be especially relevant for consultants and senior trainees in surgery anaesthesia and emergency medicine who are likely to be involved in the management of these unique injuries It will be an essential reference for pre hospital care providers and nurses working in the emergency room and intensive care Military surgeons and medical and nursing staff on deployment in regions of conflict will find the book a valuable resource

Penetrating Trauma George C. Velmahos, Elias Degiannis, Dietrich Doll, 2011-09-28 Surgery needs skill Skill needs knowledge Knowledge of tricks moves and tools This book is about such knowledge Expert authors have contributed technical pearls gained by years of experience The short how I do it chapters offer the reader a quick and effective guide that will be invaluable when addressing any penetrating injury The book is not intended to serve as a comprehensive volume of pathophysiology and management in trauma rather the goal is to provide practical solutions on how to treat injuries surgically It describes the steps that you must take when in the middle of the night confronted with devastating bleeding you will have only one chance to save a life

Anxious Joburg Nicky Falkof, Cobus van Staden, 2020-10-01 An interdisciplinary account of the life of Johannesburg South Africa's global south city Anxious Joburg focuses on Johannesburg the largest and wealthiest city in South Africa as a case study for the contemporary global South city Global South cities are often characterised as sites of contradiction and difference that produce a range of feelings around anxiety This is often imagined in terms of the global North's anxieties about the South migration crime terrorism disease and environmental crisis Anxious Joburg invites readers to consider an intimate perspective of living inside such a city How does it feel to live in the metropolis of Johannesburg what are the conditions intersections affects and experiences that mark the contemporary urban Scholars visual artists and storytellers all look at unexamined aspects of Johannesburg life From peripheral settlements to the inner city to the affluent northern suburbs from precarious migrants and domestic workers to upwardly mobile young women and fearful elites Anxious Joburg presents an absorbing engagement with this frustrating dangerous seductive city It offers a rigorous critical approach to Johannesburg revealing the way in which anxiety is a vital structuring principle of contemporary life The approach is strongly interdisciplinary with contributions from media studies anthropology religious studies urban geography migration studies and psychology It will appeal to students and teachers as well as to academic researchers concerned with Johannesburg South Africa cities and the global South The mix of approaches will also draw a non academic audience

Baragwanath Hospital Soweto illustrates how this rapidly growing underfunded but surprisingly effective institution found the niche that allowed it to exist to provide medical care to a massive patient body and at times even to flourish in the apartheid state The book offers new ways of exploring the history of apartheid apartheid medicine and health care The long history of Chris Hani Baragwanath Hospital its full current name or Bara as it's popularly known has been shaped by a complex set of conditions Established in the early 1940s Bara stands on land purchased by the Cornish immigrant John Albert Baragwanath in the late nineteenth century He set up a refreshment post trading store and hotel on the site in what is now Soweto which was a one day journey by ox wagon from Johannesburg The hotel became affectionately known as

Baragwanath Place the surname is Welsh from bara meaning bread and gwenith meaning wheat The land was then bought by Corner House Mining Group and later taken over by Crown Mines Ltd but was never mined The British government bought the land in the early 1940s to build a military hospital but by 1947 Baragwanath ceased to operate as a military hospital and under the auspices of the Transvaal Provincial Administration a civilian hospital was opened with 480 beds Patients were transferred from the non European wing of the Johannesburg General Hospital in the white area of Johannesburg Links were immediately forged with the University of the Witwatersrand and Bara would over time become one of its largest teaching centres This link brought medical students and their teachers into direct contact with apartheid in the medical sphere This book will contribute to studies of the history of apartheid that have begun to provide a more nuanced account of its workings The history of Baragwanath and of the doctors and nurses who worked there tells us much about apartheid ideology and practice as well as resistance to it in the realm of health care Socio-ecological-economic reflections on the impacts of COVID-19 in Africa Willie Chinyamurindi, Philani Moyo, 2025-02-28 This scholarly book magnifies reflections from young scientists in South Africa Africa and beyond around the COVID 19 pandemic With contributions by upcoming scientists this scholarly book provides a synopsis of socio ecological economic views on the impact of COVID 19 Through its chapters the book takes a multi disciplinary approach to reflecting on what it was like to be a scientist during the COVID 19 pandemic By doing so each chapter re imagines science from the viewpoint of its discipline offering insights from the perspective of young scientists that could benefit other scholars academics and policymakers AIDS and South Africa: The Social Expression of a Pandemic K. Kauffman, D. Lindauer, 2003-12-19 The HIV AIDS pandemic striking South Africa is of historic proportions More people are living with AIDS in South Africa than in any other country in the world Just in the past decade the life expectancy in South Africa has dropped from 67 to 43 years The social and economic impact of this disease is hard to overstate However what is striking is the paucity of thoughtful reflective scholarship and writing on the subject AIDS and South Africa The Social Expression of a Pandemic addresses the economic social and cultural impact of HIV AIDS as it relates to South African society Handbook of Research on Technoethics Luppicini, Rocci, Adell, Rebecca, 2008-08-31 This book traces the emergence of the new interdisciplinary field of technoethics by exploring its conceptual development important issues and key areas of current research Compiling 50 authoritative articles from leading researchers on the ethical dimensions of new technologies Provided by publisher Nevirapine and the Quest to End Pediatric AIDS Rebecca J. Anderson, 2014-01-23 In 1999 investigators announced that a single dose of nevirapine a new antiviral drug could stop the spread of the AIDS virus from infected mothers to their newborn babies It was a discovery that changed the face of AIDS globally but it came at a high price after years of scientific research political conflict social unrest and the loss of many thousands of lives This book is the historical account of pediatric AIDS from the first reported cases in the early 1980s to the first effective treatments in the 1990s and then to the prevention of HIV infections altogether It also includes the firsthand accounts and experiences of children infected with HIV their families and the physicians who treated them as well as the scientists who sought to understand the virus discovered nevirapine s unique properties and worked tirelessly to get it to the patients who needed it HIV Plus ,2000-06 HIV Plus offers the latest stories on research economics and treatment The magazine raises awareness of HIV related cultural and policy developments in the United States and throughout the world SAMT ,2008 Moving Mountains Anne-Christine D'Adesky,2006-07-17 In this work Anne Christine D Adesky an award winning reporter offers a global analysis of AIDS treatment and prevention in countries from South Africa to China
