

Specimen Paper – Unit 2 Mark Scheme

What criticism is David Cameron making of Tony Blair's style of decision making in Source 1? (5 Marks)

Big political decisions it is now suggested are made according to source:

- Away from the full Cabinet forum
- Exclusively in the PM's office
- With no clear recording mechanisms
- With no clear lines of accountability
- In allegedly an arrogant manner

Explain the main functions of the Cabinet. (10 Marks)

There are a range of functions which the Cabinet perform.

It acts as a chamber or forum where major Government decisions are made, these may include a decision on major budget items or the decision to enter armed conflict such as the decisions to send troops in to combat.

The Cabinet also functions as an information chamber where Government Ministers outline issues and progress within their departments and shares this detail with colleagues.

The Cabinet in addition provides unity and leadership to the Government as a whole to show a united and committed approach to policy.

In times of crisis the Cabinet provides emergency control bringing collective support and guidance.

A further function is to review the legislative timetable for Parliament and make all senior Government Ministers aware of new Bills and legislation in the pipeline.

The Cabinet has been seen to act as a training ground for future Prime Ministers.

To what extent have UK Prime Ministers become "Presidential"? (25 Marks)

A range of factors have been identified as contributing to a "Presidential" style of Prime Minister.

Reference may be made to the factors outlined by Foley, these include: the culture of the outsider, where the PM is seen as a non-establishment figure on the side of the ordinary citizen: spatial leadership where the PM distances him or herself from the
