Godfrey,Pamela Cox,Heather Shore,2017 Young Criminal Lives is the first cradle to grave study of the experiences of some of the thousands of delinquent difficult and destitute children passing through the early English juvenile reformatory system The book breaks new ground in crime research speaking to pressing present day concerns around child poverty and youth justice and resonating with a powerful public fascination for family history Using innovative digital methods to unlock the Victorian life course the authors have reconstructed the lives families and neighbourhoods of 500 children living within or at the margins of the early English juvenile reformatory system Four hundred of them were sent to reformatory and industrial schools in the north west of England from courts around the UK over a fifty year period from the 1860s onwards Young Criminal Lives is based on one of the most comprehensive sets of official and personal data ever assembled for a historical study of this kind For the first time these children can be followed on their journey in and out of reform and then through their adulthood and old age The book centres on institutions celebrated in this period for their pioneering new approaches to child welfare and others that were investigated for cruelty and scandal Both were typical of the new kind of state certified provision offered from the 1850s on to children who had committed criminal acts or who were considered vulnerable to predation poverty and the inheritance of criminal dispositions The notion that interventions can and must be evaluated in order to determine what works now dominates public policy But how did Victorian and Edwardian policy makers and practitioners deal with this question By what criteria and on the basis of what kinds of evidence did they judge their own successes and failures Young Criminal Lives ends with a critical review of the historical rise of evidence based policy making within criminal justice It will appeal to scholars and students of crime and penal policy criminologists sociologists and social policy researchers and practitioners in youth justice and child protection
