

READING NEWSPAPERS

Go to your local supermarket* and find where they have free local newspapers. Take as many as you need for each student or if this is too many, one for each pair of your students. In this case it would be better if each student had their own copy, but making this a pairwork activity is also possible.

Give students the newspapers and distribute the worksheet, which you need to prepare before the lesson on the basis of the newspaper.

Depending on the level of students you can either:

- prepare a T/F questions, for example:

There are two new restaurants opening this week in Balbriggan.
T/F

- ask students to find out information:

What two new businesses are opening in Balbriggan this week?

- prepare a cloze exercise:

Two new _____ are opening in Balbriggan this week.

Or use a combination of the above.

It is a great exercise to show students at quite low levels that they can actually get a lot of information from the free local newspaper!

Remember to use ads and notices for your reading exercises.

* this is of course only possible if you live in an English speaking country, if this is not the case, you can print out some free pages from English newspapers online.
