journalism history is becoming a particularly vivacious field As such How Journalism Uses History argues that if historical study of this kind is to achieve its full potential there needs to be a fuller and more consistent engagement with other academics studying the past political social and cultural historians in particular but also scholars working in politics sociology literature and linguistics Contributors in this book discuss the core themes which inform history's relationship with journalism from a wide range of geographical and methodological perspectives They aim to create more ambitious conversations about using journalism both as a source for understanding the past and for clarifying ideas about its role as constituent of the public sphere in using discourse and tradition to connect contemporary audiences with history This book was originally published as a special issue of Journalism Practice      Australia, a Cultural History John Rickard, 1988

The Cambridge Economic History of Australia Simon Ville, Glenn Withers, 2014-10-08 Australia's economic history is the story of the transformation of an indigenous economy and a small convict settlement into a nation of nearly 23 million people with advanced economic social and political structures It is a history of vast lands with rich exploitable resources of adversity in war and of prosperity and nation building It is also a history of human behaviour and the institutions created to harness and govern human endeavour This account provides a systematic and comprehensive treatment of the nation's economic foundations growth resilience and future in an engaging contemporary narrative It examines key themes such as the centrality of land and its usage the role of migrant human capital the tension between development and the environment and Australia's interaction with the international economy Written by a team of eminent economic historians The Cambridge Economic History of Australia is the definitive study of Australia's economic past and present      Teaching the Discipline of History in an Age of Standards Jennifer Clark, Adele Nye, 2018-06-08 This book discusses the discipline standards of History in Australian universities in order to help historians understand the Threshold Learning Outcomes and to assist in their practical application It is divided into two sections The first offers a scholarly exploration of contemporary issues in history teaching while the second section discusses each of the Threshold Learning Outcomes and provides real world examples of quality pedagogical practice Although the book focuses on the discipline of history in Australia other subjects and other countries are facing the same dilemmas As such it includes chapters that address the international context and bring an international perspective to the engagement with discipline standards The innovation and leadership of this scholarly community represents a new stage in the transformation and renewal of history teaching      History, Theory and Philosophy in Archaeology Tim Murray, 2025-02-03 This collection of essays the bulk of which have been previously published by Emeritus Professor Tim Murray ranges widely across contemporary archaeological theory and the history of archaeology while retaining a focus on the archaeology of Australia The collection is introduced by a new essay The evolution of archaeological theory that sets the agenda for the collection In doing this Murray explores the critical intersection between archaeology philosophy and the social and cultural context of its practice in Australia and elsewhere The collection brings together ideas about time scale and strategies for the evaluation of archaeological concepts and categories which are then applied to an understanding of significant issues raised by writing the archaeology of Australia from the Pleistocene to the present The essays have been drawn from over 30 years of research and writing about archaeological inquiry into the theories and methods of the discipline and will be of particular interest to archaeologists historians the managers of archaeological heritage and advocates of the importance of indigenous perspectives on the histories of post colonial societies
