Screening and Assessing Adolescents For Substance Use Disorders - TIP 31 U.S. Department of Health and Human Services,2019-11-21

reatment Improvement Protocols TIPs are developed by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration SAMHSA within the U S Department of Health and Human Services HHS Each TIP involves the development of topic specific best practice guidelines for the prevention and treatment of substance use and mental disorders TIPs draw on the experience and knowledge of clinical research and administrative experts of various forms of treatment and prevention TIPs are distributed to facilities and individuals across the country

Screening and Assessing Adolescents for Substance Use Disorders Ken C. Winters,1999

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY AND RECOMMENDATIONS In recognition of the importance of developing reliable valid and clinically useful instruments as well as procedures for screening adolescents for substance use disorders the Center for Substance Abuse Treatment CSAT in 1992 convened a Panel of experienced researchers and clinicians who work with troubled youths and their families A year later CSAT convened another Panel that examined substance use disorder treatment for adolescents and outlined state of the art treatment guidelines Two Treatment Improvement Protocols TIPs 3 and 4 were developed from these efforts Given the continued significance of assessment and treatment of adolescents substance use CSAT convened another Panel in 1997 to update both of the earlier TIPs This TIP should be viewed as a companion volume to TIP 32 Treatment of Adolescents With Substance Use Disorders CSAT 1999 which updates TIP 4 The original Panel on adolescent substance use screening and assessment had two goals The first was to discuss the problems of adolescent substance use disorders from the viewpoints of the Panel Members who come from a wide spectrum of backgrounds and specialty areas The emphasis was on practical clinical procedures to help treatment providers improve care A second goal for the Panel was to review from a practical perspective available instruments procedures and measures for assessing adolescent substance use in various settings including rehabilitation that could be used easily by clinicians and other workers in the field The Revision Panel preserved the original goals but also incorporated new research updated summaries of previously listed instruments and added recently developed tools This TIP incorporates the deliberations of the 1992 Consensus Panel and the 1997 Revision Panel It concentrates on the strategies procedures and instruments that are appropriate for the initial detection of substance use disorders in adolescents the comprehensive assessment of their problems and subsequent treatment planning Although the TIP summarizes many instruments it does not endorse any screening or assessment tools The purposes of the TIP are several 1 To provide general guidelines for evaluating developing and administering screenings and assessment instruments and processes for those who screen and assess young people for substance use disorders 2 To inform a wide range of people whose work brings them in contact with adolescents in problem situations e g teachers guidance counselors school nurses police probation officers coaches and family service workers about the processes methods and tools available to screen for potential substance use problems in adolescents 3 To discuss strategies and accepted techniques that can be used by treatment personnel to detect related problems in the adolescent's life including problems with family and peers and psychiatric issues and to see that these problems are dealt with during the primary intervention for a substance use disorder 4 To outline a screening and assessment system designed to identify those youths with potential substance use problems in various settings Adolescents differ from adults physiologically and emotionally and are covered by different laws and social services This revised TIP is designed to help juvenile justice health and human service and substance use disorder treatment personnel better identify screen and assess people 11 to 21 years old who may be experiencing substance related problems The TIP details warning signs of substance use disorders among adolescents when to screen when to assess what domains besides substance use to assess and how to involve the family and other collaterals Also covered are the legal issues of screening and assessing teenagers including confidentiality duty to warn and how to communicate with other agencies The TIP also includes a chapter specifically for those working in the juvenile justice system who want to improve their screening and assessment procedures Appendix A lists the citations referred to throughout this TIP and relevant to the instrument summaries Appendix B provides up to date summaries of instruments relevant for screening and comprehensively assessing substance abusing adolescents Appendix C contains excerpts from Drug Testing of Juvenile Detainees a publication prepared by the American Correctional Association and the Institute for Behavior and Health Inc under a grant from the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Office of Justice Programs U S Department of Justice

Depression in Parents, Parenting, and Children Institute of Medicine, National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Committee on Depression, Parenting Practices, and the Healthy Development of Children, 2009-09-28 Depression is a widespread condition affecting approximately 7.5 million parents in the U S each year and may be putting at least 15 million children at risk for adverse health outcomes Based on evidentiary studies major depression in either parent can interfere with parenting quality and increase the risk of children developing mental behavioral and social problems Depression in Parents Parenting and Children highlights disparities in the prevalence identification treatment and prevention of parental depression among different sociodemographic populations It also outlines strategies for effective intervention and identifies the need for a more interdisciplinary approach that takes biological psychological behavioral interpersonal and social contexts into consideration A major challenge to the effective management of parental depression is developing a treatment and prevention strategy that can be introduced within a two generation framework conducive for parents and their children Thus far both the federal and state response to the problem has been fragmented poorly funded and lacking proper oversight This study examines options for widespread implementation of best practices as well as strategies that can be effective in diverse service settings for diverse populations of children and their families The delivery of adequate screening and successful detection and treatment of a depressive illness and prevention of its effects on parenting and the health of children is a formidable challenge to modern health care systems This study offers seven solid recommendations designed to increase awareness about and remove barriers to care for both the depressed adult and prevention of effects in the child The report will be of particular interest to federal health officers mental and behavioral health providers in diverse parts of health care delivery systems health policy staff state legislators and the general public

Screening and Assessing Adolescents for Substance Use Disorders Ken C. Winters,2000 Presents information on identifying screening and assessing adolescents who use substances This report focuses on the most current procedures and instruments for detecting substance abuse among adolescents conducting comprehensive assessments and beginning treatment planning Presents appropriate strategies and guidelines for screening and assessment Explains legal issues concerning Federal and State confidentiality laws Provides guidance for screening and assessing adolescents in juvenile justice settings Summarizes instruments to screen and assess adolescents for substance and general functioning domains
