Bc Provincial Exam Study Guide Science 10:

Human Rights, Diversity, and National Identity Patricia E. Bromley, 2011 Fundamental world changes that simultaneously undermine a nation state's charisma and promote the rise of a supra national system have wide ranging effects upon national states within a modern global society My dissertation empirically examines the effects of social and cultural globalization on systems of mass schooling which are central institutions in every country Globally primary and secondary education initially emerged as the premier tool for nation states to create a unified national citizenry loyal to their country and socialized into a common cultural tradition I examine the extent to which this original nationalizing purpose of schooling is challenged by the increased emphases on universal human rights and diversity in civic education The analyses consist of two sections Hierarchical linear models are used to analyze a unique primary data source of 521 social science textbooks from 74 countries during the period 1970-2008 These findings show a worldwide increase in emphasis on human rights and increases in discussions of diversity in well established liberal democracies Cross national quantitative analyses are complemented by a qualitative case study of social science curricula in British Columbia BC which examines nation building within a context of strong emphasis on diversity and human rights The BC study utilizes currently approved high school citizenship education textbooks as well as older textbooks dating back to 1871 It also draws on a selection of historical documents including Ministry of Education reports curricular frameworks and high school exit exams Process wise I find the incorporation of human rights and diversity reflects macro level changes in national and global society Content wise I find four main approaches to reconciling ideas of human rights and diversity with national identity 1 framing human rights and multiculturalism as part of national identity 2 using pedagogical approaches that promote multiple perspectives and individual agency 3 celebrating social and scientific figures and accomplishments as the source of national pride and 4 drawing on exogenous sources to affirm state legitimacy This study is one of the first to theorize that civic education worldwide is moving away from a national focus and to provide empirical evidence of this trend A key implication is that educational systems are being repurposed from their original goal of constructing a unitary national citizenry to a new view emphasizing human diversity and equality in a globally interconnected world Further students are increasingly taught that the global civil society and non state actors are important and legitimate agents of social change

Pedagogy in a New Tonicity Peter Gouzouasis, 2012-01-01 This is a book for teachers by teachers from elementary school to university level classrooms It is about the use of creative instructional strategies in K-12 classroom settings and the transformations the teachers made in their journeys from being traditional practitioners to becoming pedagogical in their approaches to teaching and learning across the curriculum Over twenty teachers conducted research in their classrooms on the implementation of creative strategies tactics graphics organizers and visual journals in teaching and learning They have written their inquiries in a narrative style informed by various forms of arts based educational research Their research is approachable and usable by other teachers who are interested in becoming reflective reflexive practitioners Many of the strategies tactics and graphics organizers are described by Barrie Bennett in his widely used textbook Beyond Monet The Artful Science of Instructional Intelligence However through their journeys of becoming teacher learner researchers many discovered numerous creative variations of Bennett s work as it was implemented in their classrooms While there are many professional books that provide ideas on collaborative learning and creative teaching approaches there is very little published research on the efficacy of these concepts in the K 12 classroom These inquiries provide practical insights into how inspired teachers can conduct research on improving their own practice as well as on greatly improving their students learning Thus this book has widespread interest for teachers and administrators who seek to implement systemic changes in the ways that teachers teach and children learn in the 21st century

A Future in the Process of Arrival Alan Richard Taylor,2005 The purpose of this report is to document national and international practices and trends in computer based assessment to identify prototypes and evidence about their effectiveness to provide examples of best practice and to determine the implications for policy in the field of technology delivered assessment
