Beautiful Security Beautiful Security:

Rethinking Security in Nigeria Dapo Adelugba, Philip Ogo Ujomu, 2008 Rethinking Security in Nigeria adopts an alternate conceptual and methodological framework for rethinking national security in Nigeria by using the humanities multidisciplinary perspective against the backdrop of the hitherto restrictive analysis of the nature of national security By expounding the largely unexplored cosmological conceptual ethical and aesthetic dimensions as key contributors to national survival and social integration the volume argues systematically for a basic redefinition of the meanings of security the value of life government action and social re engineering in order to create a new system of social order an integration The authors attempt to extend the boundaries of previous theorizing on security by identifying alternate ethical and aesthetic approaches to national reconciliation and human development in present day Nigeria which faces major security challenges requiring the clarification of the basis for developing a just and harmonious society The study is a contribution to the quest for defining the vital socio cultural norms and doctrinal imperatives needed for responsible cooperative human action It examines the roles of dominant works of philosophy literature plays and performances in the creation of a basis for political stability and social reconciliation in the society It extends the boundaries of previous aesthetic studies and redefines the roles of ethics and aesthetics as crucial contributors to security human development and world civilisation

Security and Usability Lorrie Faith Cranor, Simson Garfinkel, 2005-08-25 Human factors and usability issues have traditionally played a limited role in security research and secure systems development Security experts have largely ignored usability issues both because they often failed to recognize the importance of human factors and because they lacked the expertise to address them But there is a growing recognition that today s security problems can be solved only by addressing issues of usability and human factors Increasingly well publicized security breaches are attributed to human errors that might have been prevented through more usable software. Indeed the world's future cyber security depends upon the deployment of security technology that can be broadly used by untrained computer users. Still many people believe there is an inherent tradeoff between computer security and usability. It's true that a computer without passwords is usable but not very secure. A computer that makes you authenticate every five minutes with a password and a fresh drop of blood might be very secure but nobody would use it. Clearly people need computers and if they can't use one that's secure they'll use one that isn't. Unfortunately unsecured systems aren't usable for long either. They get hacked, compromised and otherwise rendered useless. There is increasing agreement that we need to design secure systems that people can actually use but less agreement about how to reach this goal. Security Usability is the first book length work describing the current state of the art in this emerging field. Edited by security experts Dr Lorrie Faith Cranor and Dr Simson Garfinkel and authored by cutting edge security and human computer interaction HCI researchers world wide this volume is expected to become both a classic reference and an inspiration for future research. Security Usability groups 34 essays into six parts: Realigning Usability and Security with careful attention to user centered design principles; security and usability can be synergistic; Authentication Mechanisms: techniques for identifying and authenticating computer users; Secure Systems: how system software can deliver or destroy a secure user experience; Privacy and Anonymity: Systems methods for allowing people to control the release of personal information; Commercializing Usability: The Vendor Perspective: specific experiences of security and software vendors e.g. IBM, Microsoft, Lotus, Firefox and Zone Labs in addressing usability; The Classics: groundbreaking papers that sparked the field of security and usability. This book is expected to start an avalanche of discussion, new ideas and further advances in this important field.

Naturally beautiful: Cosmetic and beauty products from forests Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, Non-Timber Forest Products-Exchange Programme, 2020-06-01. During the last decade or so the extent of natural ingredients used by the cosmetics industry has increased but there is no comprehensive publication on beauty products based on forest products although scattered information does exist. By bringing attention to the role of forests in supplying beauty products and the connections with livelihood security and utilization of NWFPs awareness of the importance of forests and their connection with cosmetics will be raised. Within this context FAO and the Non Timber Forest Products Exchange Programme NTFP EP Asia have conducted this regional assessment of NWFPs related to the cosmetics and fragrance sector. The study compiled a set of case studies that examined specific NWFPs and the various traditional contexts in which they are collected, processed and marketed. The main objective of this volume is to present the case studies and the emerging synthesis while encouraging cross sectoral discussions in Asia on forests and beauty products. The study also provides recommendations on further enhancing equitable arrangements between forest communities and industry players. The initiative also organized a mini seminar on forest product contributions to the cosmetics industry as part of the Asia Pacific Forestry Week 2016 in Clark Pampanga the Philippines.
