Commoditized goods and services first appeared in the colonial period in such spectacular and spectacularly foreign forms as department stores restaurants exhibitions and staged performances Today these same forms have become the media through which many Koreans consume tradition in multiple forms In the colonial period commercial representations of Korea tourist sites postcard images souvenir miniatures and staged performances were produced primarily for foreign consumption often by non Koreans In late modernity efficiencies of production communication and transportation combine with material wealth and new patterns of leisure activity and tourism to enable the localized consumption of Korean tradition in theme parks at sites of alternative tourism at cultural festivals and performances as handicrafts art and cuisine and in coffee table books broadcast music and works of popular folklore Consuming Korean Tradition offers a unique insight into how and why different signifiers of Korea have come to be valued as tradition in the present tense the distinctive histories and contemporary anxieties that undergird this process and how Koreans today experience their sense of a common Korean past It offers new insights into issues of national identity heritage preservation tourism performance the commodification of contemporary life and the nature of tradition and modernity more generally Consuming Korean Tradition will prove invaluable to Koreanists and those interested in various aspects of contemporary Korean society including anthropology film cultural studies and contemporary history Contributors Katarzyna J Cwiertka Kyung Koo Han Keith Howard Hyung Il Pai Laurel Kendall Okpyo Moon Robert Oppenheim Timothy R Tangherlini Judy Van Zile Annual Review of Anthropology William H. Durham,2004-10 Erect Men/Undulating Women Melanie G. Wiber,2006-01-01 Based on intensive study of human origin illustrations responses from students and colleagues and research into reconstructive illustration and feminist criticism of Western art this ground breaking book traces the subtle ways in which paleoanthropological conventions have influenced and have shifted in the creation of these illustrations Wiber reveals that embedded meanings in these illustrations go beyond gender to include two other ubiquitous themes racial superiority and upward cultural progress Underlying all these themes she found a basic conservatism in the paleoanthropological approach to evolutionary theory Erect Men Undulating Women provides a deeper understanding of popularized illustrations of human origins but more importantly it encourages readers to gain a sensitivity to the ways in which Western culture constructs scientific findings that are compatible with its deeply held beliefs and values Warman's Americana and Collectibles Harry L. Rinker,1984 A price guide devoted to today s collectibles with collecting hints histories references clubs and museums Shivers Down Your Spine Alison Griffiths,2008-08-08 From the architectural spectacle of the medieval cathedral and the romantic sublime of the nineteenth century panorama to the techno fetishism of today s London Science Museum humans have gained a deeper understanding of the natural world through highly illusionistic representations that engender new modes of seeing listening and thinking What unites and defines many of these wondrous spaces is an immersive view an invitation to step inside the virtual world of the image and become a part of its universe if only for a short time Since their inception museums of science and natural history have mixed education and entertainment often to incredible eye opening effect Immersive spaces of visual display and modes of exhibition send shivers down our spines engaging the distinct cognitive and embodied mapping skills we bring to spectacular architecture and illusionistic media They also force us to reconsider traditional models of film spectatorship in the context of a mobile and interactive spectator Through a series of detailed historical case studies Alison Griffiths masterfully explores the uncanny and unforgettable visceral power of the medieval cathedral the panorama the planetarium the IMAX theater and the science museum Examining these structures as exemplary spaces of immersion and interactivity Griffiths reveals the sometimes surprising antecedents of modern media forms suggesting the spectator s deep seated desire to become immersed in a virtual world Shivers Down Your Spine demonstrates how immersive and interactive museum display techniques such as large video displays reconstructed environments and touch screen computer interactives have redefined the museum space fueling the opposition between public and private science and spectacle civic and corporate interests voice and text and life and death In her remarkable study of sensual spaces Griffiths explains why for centuries we keep coming back for more
