

Towards sustainable management of land and soil

Europe's land and soil face a number of pressures, including urban expansion, contamination from agriculture and industry, soil sealing, landscape fragmentation, low crop diversity, soil erosion and extreme weather events linked to climate change.

Greater cities with cleaner energy and transport systems, a green infrastructure connecting green areas, less intensive sustainable agricultural practices can help make Europe's land use more sustainable and soils healthier.

Bradley,1984 Water Resources Management V C.A. Brebbia,V. Popov,2009-08-21 Water resources upon which the well being of future generations depends are under extreme pressure today all over the world Resulting problems have given rise to many issues including water quality quantity management and planning and reflect the growing concern and importance accorded to their sustainable management The Fifth International Conference on Water Resources Management presents the more recent technological and scientific developments associated with the management of surface and sub surface water resources The papers are grouped under the following topics Water Management and Planning Waste Water Treatment and Re use Water Quality Pollution Control Management and Economics Decision Support Systems Hydraulic Systems Flood Risk Hydraulic Modelling Irrigation Problems Governance and Monitoring Eastside Forest Ecosystem Health Assessment: Assessment (Ipts. 1-7, 9-12) ,1994 General Technical Report PNW-GTR ,1995 Forest Policies and Social Change in England Sylvie Nail,2008-05-08 Forestry has been witness to some dramatic changes in recent years with several Western countries now moving away from the traditional model of regarding forests merely as sources of wood Rather these countries are increasingly recognizing their forests as multi purpose resources with roles which go far beyond simple economics In this innovative book Sylvie Nail uses England as a case study to explore the relationships between forests society and public perceptions raising important questions about forest policy and management both now and in the future Adopting a sociological approach to forest policy and management the book discusses the current validity of the two principles underlying forestry since the Middle Ages first that forestry should only exist when no better use of the land can be made and second that forestry itself should be profitable The author stresses how values and perceptions shape policies and conversely how policies can modify perceptions and also how policies can fail if they do not take perceptions into account She concludes that many of the issues facing English forestry in the 21st century from leisure health and amenity provision through education and rural as well as urban regeneration to biodiversity conservation go well beyond both national borders and the scope of forestry Indeed forestry in the 21st century seems to be less about planting and managing trees than about being a vector and a mirror of social change This novel synthesis provides a valuable resource for advanced students and researchers from all areas of natural resource studies including those interested in social history socio economics cultural geography and environmental psychology as well as those studying landscape ecology environmental history policy analysis and natural resource management
