Designing Elementary Instruction and Assessment John L. Badgett, Edwin P. Christmann, 2009-04-29 This book is a wonderful tool and reference for any teacher In my work of providing professional development to teachers of elementary science one of the hardest areas for the teachers to grasp is assessment Especially helpful for these teachers are the chapters on writing short answer and essay items performance based assessment and portfolios Cindy Pulkowski Program Manager Science It s Elementary Pittsburgh PA A practical guide for creating standards based objectives and assessments aligned with Bloom s Taxonomy This user friendly resource provides clear step by step guidelines for writing measurable objectives and developing appropriate formative and summative assessments to guide instruction in the elementary classroom Designed around an easy to follow model this book helps teachers develop unit and daily instructional objectives based on state and national content standards for each level of Bloom's Taxonomy including synthesis and evaluation The subsequent chapters cover the main forms of assessment and provide many detailed examples of assessment items drawn from each of the major subject areas Elementary school teachers will discover how to Deconstruct the standards and write measurable objectives Create true false fill in the blank matching and multiple choice exercises Write short answer questions and essay items Use performance based assessments and portfolios This resource guides teachers through the process of designing specific objectives based on content standards and helps them develop the right assessments to measure their students development School & Society James McKeen Cattell, Will Carson Ryan, Raymond Walters, 1936 Learning Disabilities William M. Cruickshank, William C. Morse, Jeannie Johns, 1980-02-01 The first four chapters introduce and discuss the theoretical background of both adolescence and learning disabilities They are followed by five detailed chapters each a case history of one learning disabled young man that provide us with as full and unique a picture of the youths as is possible The final chapters explore teaching the learning disabled adolescent in the secondary school The authors have devised a core educational regimen which will prepare children for life and will insure the integrity of the youth's individual personality Practical procedures a teaching method establish learning and test the performance of secondary school students in particular Cruickshank Morse and Johns concentrate on reading organization study skills and written language Early Adolescence to Early Adulthood William M. Cruickshank, Joanne Marie Kliebhan, 1984-02-01 Frontiers in the Acquisition of Literacy Claire M. Fletcher-Flinn, 2015-09-28 Learning to read and to spell are two of the most important cultural skills that must be acquired by children and for that matter anyone learning a second language We are not born with an innate ability to read A reading system of mental representations that enables us to read must be formed in the brain Learning to read in alphabetic orthographies is the acquisition of such a system which links mental representations of visual symbols letters in print words with pre existing phonological sound and semantic comprehension cognitive systems for language Although spelling draws on the same representational knowledge base and is usually correlated with reading the acquisition processes involved are not quite the same Spelling requires the sequential production of letters in words and at beginning levels there may not be a full degree of integration of phonology with its representation by the orthography Reading on the other hand requires only the recognition of a word for pronunciation Hence spelling is more difficult than reading and learning to spell may necessitate more complete representations or more conscious access to them The learning processes that children use to acquire such cognitive systems in the brain and whether these same processes are universal across different languages and orthographies are central theoretical questions Most children learn to read and spell their language at the same time thus the co ordination of these two facets of literacy acquisition needs explication as well as the effect of different teaching approaches on acquisition Lack of progress in either reading and or spelling is also a major issue of concern for parents and teachers necessitating a cross disciplinary approach to the problem encompassing major efforts from researchers in neuroscience cognitive science experimental psychology and education The purpose of this Research Topic is to summarize and review what has been accomplished so far and to further explore these general issues Contributions from different perspectives are welcomed and could include theoretical computational and empirical works that focus on the acquisition of literacy including cross orthographic research
