A Synthesis Of Qualitative Studies Of Writing Center Tutoring 1983 2006:

A Synthesis of Qualitative Studies of Writing Center Tutoring Rebecca Day Babcock, 2012 A Synthesis of Qualitative Studies of Writing Center Tutoring, 1983-2006 Rebecca Day Babcock, Kellye Manning, Travis Rogers, Courtney Goff, Amanda McCain, 2012 This book grew out of the desire and necessity to understand just what went on in writing centre tutoring sessions Utilizing previous research mostly dissertations that have not been widely read the authors analyse the available data using a grounded theory approach With information from over 50 sources the resulting text is not only a resource but illuminates for the first time just what happens in writing centre tutoring sessions From their grounded theory analysis the authors identify the dimensions impacting a tutoring session such as personal characteristics outside influences communication the emotions and temperament of the interlocutors and the ultimate outcomes An analytic conclusion ties the grounded theory data to other published research and theory Strategies for Writing Center Research Jackie Grutsch McKinney, 2015-09-15 Strategies for Writing Center Research is a how to guide for conducting writing center research introducing newcomers to the field to the methods for data collection analysis and reporting appropriate for writing center studies The Oxford Guide for Writing Tutors Melissa Ianetta, Lauren Fitzgerald, 2016 The Oxford Guide for Writing Tutors introduces two conversations to the tutor's preparation one about the creation of knowledge in writing programs the other about tutor research This approach to tutor training provides several benefits First it allows tutors to test their theories of what might work in a writing center session and helps them to move professional conversation towards why such things happen They bridge the theory practice divide that often frustrates both novices and experienced tutors By conducting research to answer such questions tutors can help themselves the writers with whom they work their fellow tutors and the writers with whom they work And further this approach gives the reader new methods for appreciating and critiquing scholarly work making it easier to understand the best ways to help writers and to move the field forward As writing tutoring programs take on a variety of forms and pursue a range of missions this book aims to create a flexible text whose contents can be easily rearranged to support a broad spectrum of reader needs Each chapter accordingly can be read independently the text does not rely on a sequential reading to create meaning The book also includes intra textual and extra textual references for the reader who wants to inquire further That is throughout the book are references to material in other chapters that might be of interest to the reader intrigued by the topic at hand So too in each chapter we include references to and citations of the scholarship that supports much of the common knowledge of the field including in the Handbook both previous tutor education textbooks and research from the field The aim is to aid the interested reader's inquiry into the scholarship of the field as well as to ground advice about practice in research that testifies to the effectiveness a range of tutoring practices Much of the scholarship cited throughout the book is authored by undergraduate tutor researchers as well as several former tutors who were graduate students when they published their articles This crucial aspect best models the ways in which tutors themselves can bring together practice and research in their day to day work and in their informed thinking about this work Including tutor voices is an important tradition of the tutor education textbook because these are voices that speak to the issues concerning tutors in a range of institutions and programs across the country Talk About Writing Jo Mackiewicz, Isabelle Thompson, 2014-09-25 Talk about Writing The Tutoring Strategies of Experienced Writing Center Tutors offers a book length empirical study of the discourse between experienced tutors and student writers in satisfactory conferences The study uses a research driven iteratively tested framework to help writing center directors tutors writing program administrators rhetoric and composition researchers first year composition instructors and others interested in talk about writing to systematically analyze tutors talk and to use that analysis to train new tutors The book strives toward two main goals to provide an analytical research and assessment tool the coding scheme that other researchers can use to understand writing center tutor talk and to provide a close empirical analysis of experienced tutor talk that can facilitate tutor training The study details tutors use of three categories of tutoring strategies instruction cognitive scaffolding and motivational scaffolding at macro and microlevels and results in practical recommendations for improving tutor training

Theories and Methods of Writing Center Studies Jo Mackiewicz, Rebecca Babcock, 2019-11-01 This collection helps students and researchers understand the foundations of writing center studies in order to make sound decisions about the types of methods and theoretical lenses that will help them formulate and answer their research questions In the collection accomplished writing center researchers discuss the theories and methods that have enabled their work providing readers with a useful and accessible guide to developing research projects that interest them and make a positive contribution It introduces an array of theories including genre theory second language acquisition theory transfer theory and disability theory and guides novice and experienced researchers through the finer points of methods such as ethnography corpus analysis and mixed methods research Ideal for courses on writing center studies and pedagogy it is essential reading for researchers and administrators in writing centers and writing across the curriculum or writing in the disciplines programs

Labored Randall McClure, Dayna V. Goldstein, 2016-11-01 Labored The State ment and Future of Work in Composition edited by Randall McClure Dayna V Goldstein and Michael Pemberton offers both a retrospective and a prospective look at the 1989 Statement of Principles and Standards for the Postsecondary Teaching of Writing and its relation to the changing nature of work in composition Stemming from an investigative project to strengthen the Statement with data culled from national reports on labor conditions this collection draws on the expertise of scholars whose research agendas and lived experiences afford fresh insights and critical analyses on labor issues in composition and writing program administration

Around the Texts of Writing Center Work R. Mark Hall, 2017-05-01 Around the Texts of Writing Center Work reveals the conceptual frameworks found in and created by ordinary writing center documents The values and beliefs underlying course syllabi policy statements website copy and comments assessment plans promotional flyers and annual reports critically inform writing center practices including the vital undertaking of tutor education In each chapter author R Mark Hall focuses on a particular document He examines its origins its use by writing center instructors and tutors and its engagement with enduring disciplinary challenges in the field of composition such as tutoring and program assessment He then analyzes each document in the contexts of the conceptual framework at the heart of its creation and everyday application activity theory communities of practice discourse analysis reflective practice and inquiry based learning Around the Texts of Writing Center Work approaches the analysis of writing center documents with an inquiry stance a call for curiosity and skepticism toward existing and proposed conceptual frameworks in the hope that the theoretically conscious evaluation and revision of commonplace documents will lead to greater efficacy and more abundant research by writing center administrators and students

Researching Writing Joyce Kinhead, 2015-07-21 Researching Writing is an accessible informative textbook that teaches undergraduates how to conduct ethical authentic research in writing studies The book introduces students to the research approaches used most often and offers a course framework for professors creating or teaching research courses themselves Author Joyce Kinhead lays out the research process including finding and defining questions planning and starting the research Expository content introduces the language and methods of writing research and specific methods are demonstrated in published examples illustrating student work using student work and showing that it is possible for students to join the scholarly conversation in writing studies Other features include student activities instructor resources student resources and links to external content on journal websites digital publications YouTube and similar work The first ever textbook for research methods in writing studies for undergraduates Researching Writing takes a hands on approach that excites and engages students in the depth and complexities of research and will influence the creation of courses in new writing majors as the field continues to grow

Tutoring Second Language Writers Shanti Bruce, Ben Rafoth, 2016-03-01 Tutoring Second Language Writers a complete update of Bruce and Rafoth's 2009 ESL Writers is a guide for writing center tutors that addresses the growing need for tutors who are better prepared to work with the increasingly international population of students seeking guidance at the writing center Drawing upon philosopher John Dewey's belief in reflective thinking as a way to help build new knowledge the book is divided into four parts Part 1 Actions and Identities is about creating a proactive stance toward language difference thinking critically about labels and the mixed feelings students may have about learning English Part 2 Research Opportunities demonstrates writing center research projects and illustrates methods tutors can use to investigate their questions about writing center work Part 3 Words and Passages offers four personal stories of inquiry and discovery and Part 4 Academic Expectations describes some of the challenges tutors face when they try to help writers meet readers specific expectations Advancing the conversations tutors have with one another and their directors about tutoring second language writers and writing Tutoring Second Language Writers engages readers with current ideas and issues that highlight the excitement and challenge of working with those who speak English as a

The Aboutness of Writing Center Talk Jo Mackiewicz, 2016-11-18

Writing centers in universities and colleges aim to help student writers develop practices that will make them better writers in the long term and that will improve their draft papers in the short term. The tutors who work in writing centers accomplish such goals through one to one talk about writing. This book analyzes the aboutness of writing center talk: what tutors and student writers talk about when they come together to talk about writing. By combining corpus driven analysis to provide a quantitative microlevel view of the subject matter and sociocultural discourse analysis to provide a qualitative macrolevel view of tutor student writer interactions, it further establishes how these two research methods operate together to produce a robust and rigorous analysis of spoken discourse.

Everyday Writing Center Anne Ellen Geller, Michele Eodice, Frankie Condon, Meg Carroll, Elizabeth H. Boquet, 2007-04-01

The Everyday Writing Center challenges some of the most comfortable traditions in its field and it does so with a commitment and persuasiveness that one seldom sees in scholarly discussion. The book at its core is an argument for a new writing center consciousness, one that makes the most of the writing center's unique and uniquely fluid identity. Writing center specialists live with a liminality that has been acknowledged but not fully explored in the literature. Their disciplinary identity is with the English department, but their mission is cross disciplinary; their research is pedagogical, but they often report to central administration. Their education is in humanities, but their administrative role demands constant number crunching. This fluid identity explains why Trickster, an icon of spontaneity, shape shifting, and the creative potential of chaos, has come to be a favorite cultural figure for the authors of this book. Adapting Lewis Hyde and others, these authors use Trickster to develop a theme of ordinary disruptions: the everyday as a source of provocative learning moments that can liberate both student writers and writing center staff. At the same time, the authors parlay Etienne Wenger's concept of community of practice into an ethos for a dynamic learner centered pedagogy that is especially well suited to the peculiar teaching situation of the writing center. Through Trickster, they question not only accepted approaches to writing center pedagogy, but conventional approaches to race, time, leadership, and collaboration as well. They encourage their field to exploit the creative potential in ordinary events that are normally seen as disruptive or defeating, and they challenge traditions in the field that tend to isolate a writing center director from the department and campus. Yet all is not random for the authors; they anchor this high risk, high yield approach in their commitment to a version of Wenger's community of practice. Conceiving of themselves, their colleagues, student writers, and student tutors as co-learners engaged together in a dynamic life of learning, the authors find a way to ground the excess and randomness of the everyday while advancing an ethic of mutual respect and self challenge. Committed to testing a region beyond the edge of convention, the authors of The Everyday Writing Center constantly push themselves and their field toward deeper, more significant research and more reflective, dynamic teaching.
