Waterman, 2010-11-17 Action Research in Healthcare is a practical guide to using research for improving practice in healthcare contexts As an increasingly popular method of inquiry action research is widely used in healthcare to investigate professional practice and patients experience while simultaneously introducing innovations planning actioning and evaluating new ideas seeking to improve patient care working collaboratively Taking you through the process step by step Action Research in Healthcare explains how to tackle each stage of your project from planning the study and undertaking a literature review through to gathering and interpreting data and implementing findings Examples of action research projects are included throughout to illustrate how the method works in practice Action Research in Healthcare assumes no previous knowledge of the subject and is the ideal resource for anyone about to start or already involved in a project Learning and Action Research Ortrun Zuber-Skerritt, 2009-01-01 These songlines sing into history the personal story of Action Learning and Research ALAR by an ALAR founder Ortrun Zuber Skerritt Revealed through a collection of interviews conducted by scholars from six countries these engaging informative intimate stories record her ALAR journey to document history and more importantly to help develop skills and innovation in workplace community and lifelong learning for everyone including the disadvantaged and poorest Reviewers comments This book is a must read for action researchers of all stripes and experience levels Ortrun Zuber Skerritt a principal architect of ALAR who has pushed the boundaries of AR conceptually and methodologically has now created a unique book built out of orchestrated interviews that provide us with much insight into who she is why and how to learn from her and invitation to collaborate in further developing our practice for the benefit of everyone Davydd Greenwood PhD Goldwin Smith Professor of Anthropology Cornell University USA Human Health into Urban and Transport Planning Mark Nieuwenhuijsen, Haneen Khreis, 2018-07-13 This volume brings together the world's leading experts on urban and transport planning environmental exposures physical activity health and health impact assessment to discuss challenges and solutions in cities The book provides a conceptual framework and work program for actions and outlines future research needs It presents the current evidence base the benefits of and numerous case studies on integrating health and the environment into urban development and transport planning Within cities there is a considerable variation in the levels of environmental exposures such as ambient air pollution noise and temperature green space availability and physical activity Many of these exposures and their adverse health impacts are related to and are being exacerbated by urban and transport planning and policy Emerging research suggests that urban and transport planning indicators such as road network distance to major roads traffic density household density industry and natural and green space can explain a large proportion of the variability in environmental exposures and therefore represent important and highly modifiable factors The urban environment is a complex interlinked system Decision makers need not only better data on the complexity of factors in environmental and developmental processes affecting human health but also an enhanced understanding of the linkages between these factors and health effects to determine at which level to target their actions most effectively. In recent years there also has been a shift from trying to change at the national level to more comprehensive and ambitious actions being developed and implemented at the regional and local levels Cities have come to the forefront of providing solutions for environmental issues such as climate change which has co benefits for health but yet need better knowledge for wider health centric action This book provides the latest and most up to date information and studies for academics and practitioners alike Research Methods in Palliative Care Julia M Addington-Hall, 2007-06-07 The research base for palliative care must improve as it continues to develop in increasingly evidence based health care systems and to provide the needs of patients and families This is the first research methods textbook focusing on the unique needs of palliative care aimed at improving current research and stimulating new research in the field Participation, Marginalization and Welfare Services Aila-Leena Matthies, Lars Uggerhøj, 2016-05-13 Current debates around participation and marginalization dominate the agenda of many European political forums There is an increasing concern about the stability of social cohesion and a growing number of particular groups of people who are regarded as being at risk of being socially excluded or marginalized This volume goes beyond the surface of public discussions to look at the central role played by welfare services in European societies in either strengthening or hindering participatory citizenship and democracy In current discussions welfare services understood in a broad sense are centrally positioned there are high expectations that welfare services can hinder marginalization and enable participation Yet marginalization is in most cases rooted in the deeper structures of society with economy participation and involvement dependent on political or highly personal factors which are beyond the scope of welfare services This groundbreaking volume posits that participation and marginalization are twin concepts expressing opposing sides of one and the same processes faced by individuals and communities It will be essential reading for social workers sociologists and policy makers throughout Europe Residential and Boarding Education and Care for Young People Ewan W. Anderson, 2005 Based on the latest research and reflecting the national drive towards evidence based standards this book offers a model which can be readily applied to training assessment of standards inspections and research and development
