Edwin A. Pratt, 2016-06-20 Excerpt from A History of Inland Transport and Communication in England Incidentally also allusion is made to the rise of Bristol Lynn Liverpool and various other ports the early history of the textile industries the cutlery trades the iron trade the salt trade and the coal trade is briefly sketched while the facts narrated in relation thereto should enable the reader to realise the bearing throughout the ages of State policy towards the general question of transport Finally the present situation and the future outlook are brought under review Even as these pages are passing through the press new developments are occurring which confirm the suggestion I have made on page 470 that in the dictionary of transport there is no such word as finality While it is still true that the electrification of the London suburban railways has not been generally adopted by the trunk companies yet the scheme in this connection announced on November 18 1911 by the London and north western Railway Company see page 507 supplementing the action already taken by the London Brighton and South Coast Rail way Company in regard to some of their suburban lines is significant of a growing determination on the part of the great railway companies to defend their own interests by competing in turn with the electric tramways which have absorbed so much of the suburban traffic of late years About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
