A Study Of Saisiyat Morphology Oceanic Linguistics Special Publications:

A Study of Saisiyat Morphology Elizabeth Zeitoun, Tai-hwa Chu, a tahesh kabaybaw Lalo, 2015-02-28 Saisiyat is a Formosan language spoken in the north western part of Taiwan. It is divided into two groups: a northern and a southern group. The Northern group used to speak the Taai dialect, also known as the Northern dialect, and lives in the upper reaches of the Shangping river in Wufeng Township, Hsinchu County. It is now largely acculturated to the Atayal. The Southern group speaks the Tungho dialect, also referred to as the Southern dialect. Most of the population is distributed throughout the valley delineated by the Eastern and the Southern rivers in Nanchuang Township, Miaoli County, and further divided into two major communities: Tungho and Penglai, dispersed in a number of villages/settlements. A small amount of the population among the Southern group is also located in the upper reaches of the Shihtan River in Shihtan Township, Miaoli County, and forms a third community referred to as Shihtan. The major difference between the two dialects is said to lie in their phonologies, but no study has so far attempted to determine the amount of lexical and morpho-syntactic variation. The goal of this monograph is to provide a functional and empirically based study of the morphology of Tungho Saisiyat in an attempt to clarify the morphological units, morphological processes, major lexical categories of this language, and further discuss its nominal and verbal morphology. The choice to orient this study towards morphology is explained by the fact that even though Saisiyat is now one of the best documented Formosan languages, there is one grammatical sketch and numerous studies on various aspects of Saisiyat grammar; there are still few studies on Saisiyat morphology, which level of complexity has been overlooked in the past.

Prominence in Austronesian Bethwyn Evans, Åshild Næss, Jozina Vander Klok, 2024-01-29 The cognitive concept of prominence is increasingly seen as key to understanding the organisation of grammar. This volume explores the encoding of prominence in languages from across the Austronesian family. The contributions show how prominence is relevant to understanding asymmetries at different levels of grammatical structure: from discourse and information structure to argument expression and socio-pragmatics. Moreover, common themes across contributions point to crosslinguistic tendencies that underpin the conventionalisation of communicative patterns for coordinating interlocutors' attention and to points of departure for further crosslinguistic exploration of how grammatical asymmetries can be explained in terms of prominence.

A Dictionary of Nafsan, South Efate, Vanuatu Nicholas Thieberger, Members of the Erakor Community, 2021-10-31 This is a dictionary of Nafsan, the language spoken in Vanuatu in the south of Efate Island, in the villages of Erakor, Pango, and Eratap. Nafsan is one of 130 distinct languages spoken in Vanuatu. Over several decades, linguist Nicholas Thieberger worked in close collaboration with the Erakor community to record this unique language and to refine its written presentation. The resulting publication offers insight into the diversity of meanings available to speakers of Nafsan, providing some 3,400 senses for Nafsan words and an English-Nafsan finderlist. In addition, the book gives an overview of the Nafsan sound system, provides a list of existing literature on the language dating back to early missionary translations, and includes maps of Efate locating nearly 200 place names Readers will also find South Efate cultural knowledge embedded in the explanations of the Nafsan words and their usages A welcome companion to Thieberger's A Grammar of South Efate 2006 this book complements and significantly augments other multimedia resources made available online by the author
