Law, 2024-04-04 My crush's father found me locked in a closet lush and inviting with a bottle jammed up tight in my you know what Nicole I could hardly believe it when I was invited to Peter Forsythe's party Peter's a star lacrosse player and all around big man on campus Popular boys like him never talk to curvy girls like me But then Peter KISSED me at the party Not only that but he brought me to a closet for some privacy and then locked me inside What the hell Now the teen boy says I have to demean myself with a wine bottle before he lets me out Otherwise I'm stuck in this prison forever Roger I got home late from work and was disgusted My son had a party last night and the mansion was trashed But there were weird sounds coming from my walk in and when I opened the door there was a lush teenage girl on the floor doing the unmentionable with a wine bottle What the f ck did my son do Nonetheless I'm a physician and I knew what came next to examine Nicole's secret spots hard and unprotected as she shivers with delight What in the world Nicole gets invited to a party only to realize that it's a prank She gets locked inside a closet by her so called date only to have HIS FATHER come to her rescue But Dr Forsythe is no soccer dad with a huge paunch Instead this powerful alpha male soon has Nicole crying out loud with ecstasy as she experiences a real man's touch Put your seatbelts on because the ride's about to begin Your hair will be on fire from the sheer heat I promise This book is a follow up to Shared by The Single Dads but all of my stories are standalone and can be read in any order Enjoy Poems, Prose and Phases Karina Guardiola-Lopez, 2014-02-10 Poems Prose and Phases is about a journey with a pen a pad and all phases in life A decade of poetry lyrics and short stories about the different phases in my life Eating Identities Wenying Xu, 2018-03-31 The French epicure and gastronome Brillat Savarin declared Tell me what you eat and I will tell you who you are Wenying Xu infuses this notion with cultural political energy by extending it to an ethnic group known for its cuisines Asian Americans She begins with the general argument that eating is a means of becoming not simply in the sense of nourishment but more importantly of what we choose to eat what we can afford to eat what we secretly crave but are ashamed to eat in front of others and how we eat Food as the most significant medium of traffic between the inside and outside of our bodies organizes signifies and legitimates our sense of self and distinguishes us from others who practice different foodways Narrowing her scope Xu reveals how cooking eating and food fashion Asian American identities in terms of race ethnicity gender class diaspora and sexuality She provides lucid and informed interpretations of seven Asian American writers John Okada Joy Kogawa Frank Chin Li Young Lee David Wong Louie Mei Ng and Monique Truong and places these identity issues in the fascinating spaces of food hunger consumption appetite desire and orality Asian American literature abounds in culinary metaphors and references but few scholars have made sense of them in a meaningful way Most literary critics perceive alimentary references as narrative strategies or part of the background Xu takes food as the central site of cultural and political struggles waged in the seemingly private domain of desire in the lives of Asian Americans Eating Identities is the first book to link food to a wide range of Asian American concerns such as race and sexuality Unlike most sociological studies which center on empirical analyses of the relationship between food and society it focuses on how food practices influence psychological and ontological formations and thus contributes significantly to the growing field of food studies For students of literature this tantalizing work offers an illuminating lesson on how to read the multivalent meanings of food and eating in literary texts
