Mathy, 2013-06-29 In the concluding session of the symposium Acid Deposition a Challenge for Europe held in Karlsruhe in September 1983 Dr GINJAAR the former Minister of Health and Environmental Protection of the Netherlands emphasised the need for setting up a concerted research programme including the effects of air pollution on terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems The Council of Ministers of the European Community in 1984 adopted a revision of the 3rd Community Programme on Environment comprising contract research and concerted action in the field of the effects of air pollution in eco systems These research areas were also introduced in the 4th R D Community Programme on Environment adopted by the Council of Ministers in 1986 and are subject again to contract research and concerted action The Commission of the European Community is very concerned to increase the effectiveness of research projects carried out within the national programmes and those undertaken at the Community level The Commission tends to develop an integrated scientific approach including not only the physico chemical behaviour the transport and the deposition of airborne pollutants but also the effects of these pollutants in particular on living organisms and ecosystems With regard to the specific issue of the effects the Commission is trying to develop and strengthen a multi disciplinary approach associating biologists pathologists eco physiologists and specialists of soil sciences within the concerted action as well as within coordinated research projects

Sommer,2013-03-09 This volume gives an insight into what a group of contemporary plankton biologists think about the utility virtues strengths and theoretical and practical weaknesses of J H Connell s Intermediate Disturbance Hypothesis within the context of phytoplankton ecology The sequence of papers in this volume moves from particular case studies to more general and finally theoretical approaches Freshwater Algae of North America John D. Wehr,Robert G. Sheath,J. Patrick Kociolek,2015-06-05 Freshwater Algae of North America Ecology and Classification Second Edition is an authoritative and practical treatise on the classification biodiversity and ecology of all known genera of freshwater algae from North America The book provides essential taxonomic and ecological information about one of the most diverse and ubiquitous groups of organisms on earth This single volume brings together experts on all the groups of algae that occur in fresh waters also soils snow and extreme inland environments In the decade since the first edition there has been an explosion of new information on the classification ecology and biogeography of many groups of algae with the use of molecular techniques and renewed interest in biological diversity Accordingly this new edition covers updated classification information of most algal groups and the reassignment of many genera and species as well as new research on harmful algal blooms Extensive and complete Describes every genus of freshwater algae known from North America with an analytical dichotomous key descriptions of diagnostic features and at least one image of every genus Full color images throughout provide superb visual examples of freshwater algae Updated Environmental Issues and Classifications including new information on harmful algal blooms HAB Fully revised introductory chapters including new topics on biodiversity and taste and odor problems Updated to reflect the rapid advances in algal classification and taxonomy due to the widespread use of DNA technologies Proceedings of the National Wetland Classification and Inventory Workshop, Held at University of Maryland, College Park, July 20-23, 1975 J. Henry Sather, 1976 The Ecology of the Coastal Marshes of Western Lake Erie Charles E. Herdendorf, 1987 The Chironomidae P.D. Armitage, L.C. Pinder, P.S. Cranston, 2012-12-06 The dipteran family Chironomidae is the most widely distributed and frequently the most abundant group of insects in freshwater with representatives in both terrestrial and marine environments A very wide range of gradients of temperature pH oxygen concentration salinity current velocity depth productivity altitude and latitude have been exploited by at least some chironomid species and in grossly polluted environments chironomids may be the only insects present The ability to exist in such a wide range of conditions has been achieved largely by behavioural and physiological adaptations with relatively slight morphological changes It has been estimated that the number of species world wide may be as high as 15000 This high species diversity has been attributed to the antiquity of the family relatively low vagility leading to isolation and evolutionary plasticity In many aquatic ecosystems the number of chironomid species present may account for at least 50% of the total macroinvertebrate species recorded This species richness wide distribution and tolerance to adverse conditions has meant that the group is frequently recorded in ecological studies but taxonomic difficulties have in the past prevented non specialist identification beyond family or subfamily level Recent works including genetic studies have meant that the family is receiving much more attention globally
