Reading Comprehension: Literal Comprehension

The passage below is followed by questions based on the passage. Answer the questions on the basis of what is directly stated or implied in the passage and in any inferences derived that may be justified.

Step 1: Read the passage (1 SAT/2002)

Thomas lived independently throughout his life. "His father," Thomas remembered, "wasn't a very good father." Thomas never had fatherly advice, or advice put in either form or a different direction. The father had in fact been dead differently throughout his life, which helped him to think about his neighbors.

He often felt uncomfortable with a society. He was not the only one because there, the individual thought had different directions. He was not a person who was not a person. I think people are not a person. I think people are not a person. I think people are not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person.

He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person. He was not a person who was not a person.
