Studies on Reduplication Bernhard Hurch, 2011-12-22 For several reasons mostly inherent to the different developments of generative grammar an increasing number of publications have dealt with reduplication in the past 20 years Reduplication lends itself perfectly as a test field for theories that opt for a non segmental organization of phonology and morphology As it happens frequently then the discussion centers around a rather small set of data for which alternative analysis are offered and which themselves are intended to contribute to the foundation of new theoretical developments The present volume which goes back to a conference on reduplication at the University of Graz Austria offers a broader approach to reduplication not only from different theoretical viewpoints but especially for its phenomenology Across theories a number of highly qualified authors deal with formal and functional perspectives with typological properties with semantics comparative issues the role of reduplication in language acquisition the acquisition of reduplicative systems sign languages creoles and pidgins general grammatical and cognitive principles the picture is completed by a series of language or language family specific studies as on Uto Aztecan Salish Tupi Guarani Moroccan and Cairene Arabic various African languages Chinese Turkish Indo European languages from India etc The overall scope of the conference was to contribute to a new level of discussion of the phenomenon across theories and across specializations and interests
