Terraforming Mars Martin Beech, Joseph Seckbach, Richard Gordon, 2021-12-09 TERRAFORMING MARS This book provides a thorough scientific review of how Mars might eventually be colonized industrialized and transformed into a world better suited to human habitation The idea of terraforming Mars has in recent times become a topic of intense scientific interest and great public debate Stimulated in part by the contemporary imperative to begin geoengineering Earth as a means to combat global climate change the terraforming of Mars will work to make its presently hostile environment more suitable to life especially human life Geoengineering and terraforming at their core have the same goal that is to enhance or revive the ability of a specific environment to support human life society and industry The chapters in this text written by experts in their respective fields are accordingly in resonance with the important and ongoing discussions concerning the human stewardship of global climate systems In this sense the text is both timely and relevant and will cover issues relating to topics that will only grow in their relevance in future decades The notion of terraforming Mars is not a new one as such and it has long played as the background narrative in many science fiction novels This book however deals exclusively with what is physically possible and what might conceivably be put into actual practice within the next several human generations Audience Researchers in planetary science astronomy astrobiology space engineering architecture ethics as well as members of the space industry

Jerusalem Creek Ted Leeson, 2004-06-01 Every existence has its pulse points writes Ted Leeson in this latest book those places where life rises somehow closer to the surface and makes itself more keenly felt Spring creeks have been mine Jerusalem Creek is an exploration into the unique landscape of the driftless area in southwest Wisconsin a geography of small concealments of coves and hollows oak groves and shady bends winding brooks and trout It is not a landscape that you hike up or climb down into or stand out looking upon it is one that you slip inside of and this book presents the view from within Leeson reflects on waters and people and the experiences and ideas that shaped his understanding of spring creek country By turns thoughtful and hilarious passionate and wry he journeys into the special charms of small scale waters and pastoral spaces the nature of meandering trout streams and fishermen ruminations on dairy cows honeybees and the midwestern character family and angling companions Amish farmsteads the memory of a missing photograph the equivocal dream of owning a trout stream the ways in which the past endures in the present Layered and overlapping like the limestone geology of driftless country the meditations in this book cumulatively tell the story of how we create the places we love and how they in turn create us Jerusalem Creek is a wise poignant and haunting book about those places that remain with us long after we ve left them Visualizing Physical

Healing God's Earth S. Roy Kaufman,2013-08-02 Rural communities and traditional cultures throughout North America and around the world are being systematically dismantled by the forces of urban civilization It is no new phenomenon For over four millennia the powers of urban civilization have been playing God oppressing people and exploiting the earth This long history has brought us to the brink of disaster in the current economic ecological and energy crises confronting the dominant global culture This book reads the Bible through the lenses of rural communities The Bible has something to say about the origin and character of urban civilization and the dynamic of its relationship to rural communities Both Israel in the Old Testament and Jesus in the New Testament were engaged in the formation of rural communities of faith living as alternatives to the dominant cultures of the urban civilizations in which they lived It turns out that local face to face communities both rural and urban along with traditional cultures of all stripes are God's chosen instruments for the subversive nonviolent disarming of urban civilization and the healing of God's earth
