The Bible Tells Me So Robert C. Walton, 2012-08-01 Anyone looking at Scripture finds that the material in the Bible is not arranged topically Thus the pursuit of Systematic Theology requires some justification Why should anyone rearrange the teaching found in the Bible on the basis of some man made scheme First of all the practice of Systematic Theology is supported by Scripture itself where we find instances where those who sought to understand its teachings drew from a variety of passages in order to do so Second Systematic Theology is legitimized by the inspiration and unity of Scripture The Bible is made up of sixty six books but is really one Book with one Author that speaks with a coherent message In fact if the Bible were not the work of a single Author the topical study of it would be absurd because unity of thought would not exist Third Systematic Theology is justified by the progressive nature of revelation God did not tell His people everything He intended to reveal at once but gradually unfolded the truth expanding on previous teachings by clarifying and illuminating them later As a result if we want to discover the complete teaching of the Bible on any subject we must gather together many relevant passages in order to answer the question What does the Bible teach about ____ What about the arrangement of the material in the book Why treat subjects in the order in which they are presented in this text The Doctrine of Scripture is the logical place to begin if the Bible is to be our authority we must have confidence that it is indeed the Word of God We then seek to discover what God has revealed about Himself and we find that He is one God in three Persons Father Son and Holy Spirit leading us to the study of the members of the Trinity Having come to a clear understanding of who God is we must then consider who we are so we study the Doctrine of Man What we find is that we are sinners alienated from God What is to be done We find that God has provided a solution to man s greatest need in the Gospel which leads us to the Doctrine of Salvation Once we see that God has called sinners to Himself we find that His intention is to bring them together into one body the Church and to gather that Church into His presence forever We thus finish the course by studying Ecclesiology and Eschatology The reader of this book should keep several things in mind The first is that the organization of the biblical material is artificial rather than one demanded by the text itself and therefore attention to context is essential Proof texting in the study of Bible Doctrine is very easy to do Second be aware that many of the questions discussed in the book are ones about which Christians disagree The faithful interpreter of Scripture must be able to discern between those clear teachings that are of the essence of the faith and those issues where our understanding of the Bible may not be as clear and sincere believers may harmoniously agree to disagree A third reminder is that Christians must be humble enough to let God be God Many of the doctrinal disputes that have arisen over the years stemmed from the attempt on man s part to delve into divine mysteries that God has not chosen to reveal to us Such pursuits are dangerous many heresies in the history of the church have grown out of the desire to present dogmatic answers to questions about which God has not spoken Lastly keep in mind that Bible Doctrine can never be simply a theoretical academic pursuit The Bible never teaches abstract doctrine but always presents ideas in the context of real life application So it must be for us We must always ask the So what question seeking from our studies not only intellectual stimulation and greater understanding but also a deeper relationship to God

How to Study the Bible Willis C. impossible claims to be clung to with blind faith Mike Higton argues that it is rather a set of claims that emerge in the midst of Christian life as Christian communities try to make enough sense of their lives and of their world to allow them to carry on Christian communities have made sense of their own life and the life of the wider world in which they are set as life created by God to share in God's own life They have seen themselves and their world as laid hold of God's life in Jesus of Nazareth and as having the Spirit of God's own life actively at work within them This book explores these and other central Christian doctrines and in each case shows how the doctrine makes sense and how it is woven into Christian life It will help readers to see what sense it might make to say the things that Christian doctrine says and how that doctrine might affect the way that one looks at everything the natural world gossip culture speaking in tongues politics dieting human freedom love High Noon justice computers racism the novels of Jane Austin parenthood death and fashion
