CLIMB Higher Kristine Miller, Scott McKenzie, 2011-05-01 CLIMB challenges the negative connotations associated with stewardship and invites congregations to completely change the conversation around this critically important topic Instead of talking about the needs of the church budget CLIMB suggests a discovery of your congregation s compelling vision for ministry Instead of selecting your stewardship leaders by default CLIMB encourages the development of strong leadership through setting clear and challenging expectations CLIMB involves changing the entire culture of your congregation to one of gratitude where conversations revolve around sharing God s abundance rather than holding on fearfully CLIMB encourages the sharing of ministry stories rather than pledging to a budget And finally CLIMB asserts that if you truly believe expressing generosity results in a deeper connection to God you have no choice but to boldly ask others to become more generous givers

Nouwen's Spiritual Direction Everest Media, 2022-07-25T22:59:00Z Please note This is a companion version not the original book Sample Book Insights 1 The distance between a Zen Master in the Far East and a Christian spiritual director in the West might seem wide but it points to the wisdom we need to live the questions of our lives both alone and in community 2 To seek spiritual direction for me means to ask the big questions the fundamental questions and the universal ones in a supportive community Out of asking the right questions and living the questions right actions will come about 3 The first step in receiving guidance is to ask yourself difficult questions Your life is not a problem to be solved but a journey to be taken with Jesus as your friend and guide 4 To receive spiritual help in time of need you must first not deny but affirm the search Painful questions must be raised faced and then lived This means that you must constantly avoid the temptation of offering or accepting simple answers
