America's First Network TV Censor The Work Of Nbc's Stockton Helffrich:

America's First Network TV Censor Robert Pondillo, 2010-04-23 America's First Network TV Censor The Work of NBC's Stockton Helffrich is a unique examination of early television censorship centered around the papers of Stockton Helffrich the first manager of the censorship department at NBC Set against the backdrop of postwar America and contextualized by myriad primary sources including original interviews and unpublished material Helffrich's reports illustrate how early censorship of advertising language and depictions of sex violence and race shaped the new medium While other books have cited Helffrich's reports none have considered them as a body of work complemented by the details of Helffrich's life and the era in which he lived America's First Network TV Censor explores the ways in which Helffrich's personal history and social class influenced his perception of his role as NBC TV censor and his tendency to ignore certain political and cultural taboos while embracing others Author Robert Pondillo considers Helffrich's life in broadcasting before and after the Second World War and his censorial work in the context of 1950s American culture and emerging network television Pondillo discusses the ways that cultural phenomena including the arrival of the mid twentieth century religious boom McCarthyism the dawn of the Civil Rights era and the social upheaval over sex music and youth contributed to a general sense that the country was morally adrift and ripe for communist takeover Five often censored subjects advertising language and depictions of sex violence and race are explored in detail exposing the surprising complexity and nuance of early media censorship Questions of whether too many sadistic westerns would coarsen America's children how to talk about homosexuality without using the word homosexuality and how best to advertise toilet paper without offending people were on Helffrich's mind his answers to these questions helped shape the broadcast media we know today The Television Code Deborah L. Jaramillo, 2018-09-26 The broadcasting industry's trade association the National Association of Broadcasters NAB sought to sanitize television content via its self regulatory document the Television Code The Code covered everything from the stories images and sounds of TV programs no profanity illicit sex and drinking negative portrayals of family life and law enforcement officials or irreverence for God and religion to the allowable number of commercial minutes per hour of programming It mandated that broadcasters make time for religious programming and discouraged them from charging for it And it called for tasteful and accurate coverage of news public events and controversial issues Using archival documents from the Federal Communications Commission NBC the NAB and a television reformer Senator William Benton this book explores the run up to the adoption of the 1952 Television Code from the perspectives of the government TV viewers local broadcasters national networks and the industry's trade association Deborah L Jaramillo analyzes the competing motives and agendas of each of these groups as she builds a convincing case that the NAB actually developed the Television Code to protect commercial television from reformers who wanted more educational programming as well as from advocates of subscription television an alternative distribution model to the commercial system By agreeing to self censor content that viewers local stations and politicians found objectionable Jaramillo concludes the NAB helped to ensure that commercial broadcast television would remain the dominant model for decades to come

The Indecent Screen Cynthia Chris, 2019-01-07

The Indecent Screen explores clashes over indecency in broadcast television among U S based media advocates television professionals the Federal Communications Commission and TV audiences Cynthia Chris focuses on the decency debates during an approximately twenty year period since the Telecommunications Act of 1996 which in many ways restructured the media environment Simultaneously ever increasing channel capacity new forms of distribution and time shifting in the form of streaming and on demand viewing options radically changed how when and what we watch But instead of these innovations quelling concerns that TV networks were too often transmitting indecent material that was accessible to children complaints about indecency skyrocketed soon after the turn of the century Chris demonstrates that these clashes are significant battles over the role of family the role of government and the value of free speech in our lives arguing that an uncensored media is so imperative to the public good that we can and must endure the occasional indecent screen
