Jce Question Result 2014:

The Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia Simon M. Meisenberg, Ignaz Stegmiller, 2016-03-30 This book is the first comprehensive study on the work and functioning of the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia ECCC. The ECCC were established in 2006 to bring to trial senior leaders and those most responsible for serious crimes committed under the notorious Khmer Rouge regime. Established by domestic law following an agreement in 2003 between the Kingdom of Cambodia and the UN, the ECCC's hybrid features provide a unique approach of accountability for mass atrocities. The book entails an analysis of the work and jurisprudence of the ECCC providing a detailed assessment of their legacies and contribution to international criminal law. The collection containing 20 chapters from leading scholars and practitioners with inside knowledge of the ECCC discuss the most pressing topics and its implications for international criminal law. These include the establishment of the ECCC subject matter crimes joint criminal enterprise and procedural aspects including questions regarding the trying of frail accused persons and the admission of torture statements into evidence. Simon M. Meisenberg is an Attorney at Law in Germany; formerly he was a Legal Advisor to the ECCC and a Senior Legal Officer at the Special Court for Sierra Leone. Ignaz Stegmiller is Coordinator for the International Programs of the Faculty of Law at the Franz von Liszt Institute for International and Comparative Law Giessen, Germany.

Justice in Extreme Cases Darryl Robinson, 2020-12-17 The book shows how moral theory can challenge and improve international criminal law and how extreme cases can challenge and improve mainstream theory.

International Criminal Law Roger O'Keefe, 2015 International Criminal Law provides a comprehensive overview of an increasingly integral part of public international law. It complements the usual accounts of the substantive law of those international crimes tried to date before international criminal courts and of the institutional law of those courts with in-depth analyses of fundamental formal juridical concepts such as an international crime and an international criminal court with detailed examinations of the many international crimes provided for by way of multilateral treaty and of the attendant obligations and rights of states parties and with sustained attention to the implementation of international criminal law at the national level. Direct, concise and precise International Criminal Law should prove a valuable resource for scholars and practitioners of the discipline of international criminal law.

Perpetrators and Accessories in International Criminal Law Neha Jain, 2014-12-01 International criminal law lacks a coherent account of individual responsibility. This failure is due to the inability of international tribunals to capture the distinctive nature of individual responsibility for crimes that are collective by their very nature. Specifically, they have misunderstood the nature of the collective action or framework that makes these crimes possible and for which liability may be attributed to intellectual authors, policy makers and leaders. In this book, the author draws on insights from comparative law and methodology to propose doctrines of perpetration and secondary responsibility that reflect the role and function of high level participants in mass atrocity while simultaneously situating them within the political and social climate which renders these crimes possible. This new doctrine is developed through a novel approach which combines and restructures divergent theoretical perspectives on attribution of responsibility in English and German domestic criminal law as major representatives of the common law and civil law systems. At the same time, it analyses existing theories of responsibility in international criminal law and assesses whether there is any justification for their retention by international criminal tribunals.

Exclusion from Protection as a Refugee Yao Li, 2017-09-11 In Exclusion from Protection as a Refugee, Yao Li analyses Article 1F of the 1951 Refugee Convention. She argues that the exclusion clause is a quasi-punitive provision and must therefore be interpreted with due regard to International Criminal Law. Having developed an interpretation approach to consider external legal notions, Li provides a solution for all the relevant issues in the context of Article 1F based on a harmonizing interpretation. The study therefore not only comprehensively examines the exclusion clause at the intersection of International Refugee Law and International Criminal Law but also contributes to anti-fragmentation efforts in International Law.

State Responsibility for Support of Armed Groups in the Commission of International Crimes Narissa Ramsundar, 2020-04-14 State Responsibility for the Support of Armed Groups in the Commission of International Crimes examines the law on attribution of conduct of individuals to states Under established principles of international law State responsibility only arises where armed groups act under the direction or control of the State or are completely dependent on the State These tests are under inclusive as they do not consider the different ways states can exert control over armed groups in the commission of international crimes Ramsundar presents an interesting examination into the possibility of liberalization of the rules of State responsibility The examination considers subtle ways states can exert control over armed groups in the commission of international crimes Her proposal presents a compelling argument for widening the scope of responsibility to states through useful modifications to interpretation of the tests of control and dependence

Participation in Crime Falling within the Subject-Matter Jurisdiction of the International Criminal Court Aleksandra Nieprzecka, 2024-06-18 This book centres on the forms of participation in crime set out in the Rome Statute but it is definitely not a simple repetition or summary of the views expressed in the ICC case law Instead the work critically elaborates on the ICC practice and presents a theoretical and dogmatic description of modes of criminal responsibility that might be found in the Statute The element of novelty is however brought about by the methodology which encompasses a normative analysis based on the distinction between the categories of sanctioned and sanctioning norms initially introduced by K Binding in the German doctrine but for the purposes of this book adjusted to the structure of international core crimes and reconciling them with the grounds for criminal responsibility as such Moreover the work does not avoid bold assertions concerning the norms of participation in crime concerning inter alia the concept of spectator or public approval and or direct incitement to genocide This approach should be of particular interest to those who are under the impression that international criminal law is entangled in a multiplicity of labels and the judicial practice sometimes adopts the same requirements without any further thought or analysis The book aims to trigger a broader debate on the merits and rationale of participation in crime and encourages readers to rethink some of the concepts developed within judicial practice The work also takes into consideration the ICC case law in particular some tendencies that might be inferred from the separate and concurring opinions in the Ntaganda case All in all it endeavours to reflect on the content of Article 25 3 and 28 of the Rome Statute and provide an answer on how ICC practice might and perhaps should evolve further

Aleksandra Nieprzecka Ph D is a member of the Polish Bar Association in Krak w and worked as a principal researcher in the project concerning the model of participation in crime adopted in the Rome Statute carried out at the Jagiellonian University in Krak w where she finished her doctoral studies according to the co tutelle agreement between the Jagiellonian University in Krak w and the University of Hamburg

A Collective Theory of Genocidal Intent Sangkul Kim, 2016-05-24 Tackling one of the most confusing and controversial issues in the field of international criminal law i e the genocidal intent element this monograph seeks to develop an account of genocidal intent from a collectivist perspective Drawing upon the two layered structure of the crime of genocide composed of the conduct level and context level it detects the genocidal intent element at the context level The genocidal intent found in this manner belongs to a collective which significantly departs from the prior individualistic understandings of the notion of genocidal intent The author argues that the crime of genocide is not a crime of mens rea Collective genocidal intent at the context level operates in a way that renders the crime of genocide itself a criminal enterprise The idea of genocide as a criminal enterprise also suggests that genocide is a leadership crime in respect of which only the high level actors can be labeled as principals as opposed to accessories The book criticizes the dominant individualistic approaches to genocidal intent in particular the knowledge based approach which have thus far governed the relevant jurisprudential and academic analysis It further demonstrates that the hidden notion of collective genocide silently governs the relevant international jurisprudence Practitioners and academics in the field of international criminal law and related disciplines will find in this book a new approach to the crime of genocide The text is the first ever book length exposition of a collective account of genocidal intent Its accessibility is highly enhanced by relevant footnotes Sangkul Kim is Lecturer at Korea University in Seoul and Research Fellow with the Centre for International Law Research and Policy CILRAP He served as Associate Legal Adviser at the Office of the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court 2004 2008 He earned law degrees from Korea University and Georgetown University Law Center
