ICIE 2015 3rd International Conference on Innovation and Entrepreneurship Deresh Ramjugernath, 2015-02-24

These proceedings represent the work of researchers participating in the 3rd International Conference on Innovation and Entrepreneurship ICIE 2015 which is being co hosted by The University of KwaZulu Natal Durban and the Ethekwini Municipality Durban South Africa on the 19 20 March 2015 The ICIE Conference constitutes a valuable platform for individuals to present their research findings display their work in progress and discuss conceptual advances in many different branches of innovation and entrepreneurship in business and management At the same time it provides an important opportunity for researchers and managers to come together with peers share knowledge and exchange ideas ICIE builds on the now well established European Conference on Innovation and Entrepreneurship and allows universities outside the European Boundaries the opportunity to host an academic conference on these important topics In addition to the presentations of research the conference will feature a knowledge cafe led by Dr Shawren Singh looking at this topic How can academics focus research efforts to better serve the business and public sector communities The second day will open with a panel discussion looking at Smart cities Opportunities for Entrepreneurship and Economic growth Following an initial submission of 85 abstracts that have undergone a double blind peer review process 26 research papers 3 PhD research papers 2 work in progress papers are published in these Conference Proceedings representing research results from the Czech Republic Denmark Italy Kazakhstan Kenya Lithuania Nigeria Poland Saudi Arabia South Africa Sweden The Netherlands UK USA and Zambia Transforming Tertiary Agricultural Education in Africa David Kraybill, John

Lynam, Adipala Ekwamu, 2021-11-24 Enormous changes are affecting African production agriculture urbanization and food consumption patterns requiring new approaches to training and knowledge generation and dissemination to achieve food security Many agricultural universities and other tertiary agricultural education TAE organizations have been slow to respond hindered by inadequate staffing and facilities and growing competition for funds However some African agricultural universities are transforming themselves and are achieving remarkable success This book documents successful approaches to remaking TAE in Africa to inspire leaders both formal and informal of other TAE organizations It emphasises adaptive strategies and processes creating an internal culture driven by stakeholder needs and where organizational transformation improves the quality and relevance of teaching research and outreach The chapters cover the role of TAE in agricultural transformation trends in TAE in Africa solutions to the rigour versus relevance dilemma curriculum design informed by actual and emerging labour market conditions innovation and entrepreneurship TAE quality assurance and networking among TAE institutions Sustainable Management of Invasive Pests in Africa Saliou Niassy, Sunday Ekesi, Lorna Migiro, Washington Otieno, 2020-07-13 Invasive species generally affect economically important crops thus affecting the livelihoods of millions of people along crop value chains Typically invasive species have high migratory capabilities and because of plant material exchanges made during trade they cannot be contained by one country Usually African countries react after a pest has invaded and established itself in the country making the cost of mitigating the pest even more expensive This book presents a pan African view of the impacts of invasive insect pests on agriculture and of how invasive species impact on productivity in Africa It not only describes their importance but also presents a diversity of research findings in the field ranging from the use of early warning and monitoring systems for quarantine purposes agricultural extension all the way to control strategies The IPM arsenal presented in this book includes the use of botanical bioactive compounds semiochemicals resistant varieties biological control agents such as entomopathogens endophytes predators and natural enemies Aspects of technology transfer strategies regional coordination and farmers perceptions have not been overlooked because these affect the adoption of mitigation strategies The book also presents measures that would help agricultural research services to estimate the damage and take actions for preparedness and readiness to face invasive insect pests This starts with a basic knowledge of taxonomy to enable concerned persons to describe the insects and the vast inventory of affected crops Physiological and ecological aspects of invasive pests are strongly highlighted to strengthen Integrated Pest Management Strategies The threat of invasive species will remain permanent therefore the book encourages knowledge exchange and collaboration between researchers and scientists on the continent while encouraging the establishment of a platform or a fund for preparedness and rapid response

The Report: Kenya 2017 , As the largest economy in the EAC and COMESA in terms of GDP Kenya has positioned itself as a major economic power in sub Saharan Africa Traditionally a largely agrarian economy Kenya has quickly entrenched its position as a manufacturing logistics and technology hub in the region and this diversification forms a solid platform from which the government can generate economic growth over the coming years The resolution of the electoral process improving business confidence and strong private consumption are likely to support GDP expansion over 2018 and into 2019 In April 2018 the IMF estimated the economy would expand by 5.5% in 2018 and 6% in 2019 compared to 4.8% in 2017

The Status of Student

Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M., Arasa, Josephine N., 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya

Scaling Up Disruptive Agricultural Technologies in Africa Jeehye Kim,Parmesh Shah,Joanne Catherine Gaskell,Ashesh Prasann,2020-07-16 This study which includes a pilot intervention in Kenya aims to further the state of knowledge about the emerging trend of disruptive agricultural technologies DATs in Africa with a focus on supply side dynamics The first part of the study is a stocktaking analysis to assess the number scope trend and characteristics of scalable disruptive technology innovators in agriculture in Africa From a database of 434 existing DAT operations the analysis identified 194 as scalable The second part of the study is a comparative case study of Africa s two most successful DAT ecosystems in Kenya and Nigeria which together account for half of Sub Saharan Africa s active DATs The objective of these two case studies is to understand the successes challenges and opportunities faced by each country in fostering a conducive innovation ecosystem for scaling up DATs The case study analysis focuses on six dimensions of the innovation ecosystem in Kenya and Nigeria finance regulatory environment culture density human capital and infrastructure The third part of the study is based on the interactions and learnings from a pilot event to boost the innovation ecosystem in Kenya The Disruptive Agricultural Technology Innovation Knowledge and Challenge Conference in Nairobi Kenya brought together more than 300 key stakeholders from large technology companies agribusiness companies and public agencies government representatives and experts from research and academic institutions and representatives from financial institutions foundations donors and venture capitalists Scaling Up Disruptive Agricultural Technologies in Africa concludes by establishing that DATs are demonstrating early indications of a positive impact in addressing food system constraints It offers potential entry points and policy recommendations to facilitate the broader adoption of DATs and improve the overall food system Strategic Levers for Project Performance Gabriel Wasonga Jabongo,Mogaka Momanyi Ronald,Emmanuel Kwabena,Uwase Mutoni,2025-08-28 TOPICS IN THE BOOK The Influence of Result Based Monitoring on the Performance of Housing Projects in Nairobi Influence of Benchmarking Evaluation Approaches on the Performance of Housing Projects in Nairobi Determinants of Performance of Early Childhood Development Projects in Kisii County Kenya Impact of Entrepreneurial Orientation on Project Success in Technology Startups in Ghana Influence of Digital Transformation on Project Management Efficiency in Construction Projects in Rwanda Human Resource Framework Siwoku-Awi Omotayo Foluke, Haron Lekartiwa, Magdalene Kamunya, Margaret Wangui Mugwe, Dr. Grace Wanjiru Njine,2022-11-04 TOPICS IN THE BOOK Mentoring as Correlate of Self Confidence and Job Satisfaction A Psychological Perspective Effects of Remuneration on Employee Turnover in Private Hospitals Samburu County Influence of Coaching On Employee Retention in Commercial Banks in Kenya Effect of Diversity Management on Organizational Performance of Information Communication and Technology Firms in Nairobi County Influence of Internal Communication on Innovation Performance of DTS in Kenya Edible Insects in Sustainable Food Systems Afton Halloran,Roberto Flore,Paul Vantomme,Nanna Roos,2018-05-14 This text provides an important overview of the contributions of edible insects to ecological sustainability livelihoods nutrition and health food culture and food systems around the world While insect farming for both food and feed is rapidly increasing in popularity around the world the role that wild insect species have played in the lives and societies of millions of people worldwide cannot be ignored In order to represent this diversity this work draws upon research conducted in a wide range of geographical locations and features a variety of different insect species Edible insects in Sustainable Food Systems comprehensively covers the basic principles of entomology and population dynamics edible insects and culture nutrition and health gastronomy insects as animal feed factors influencing preferences and acceptability of insects environmental impacts and conservation considerations for insect farming and policy and legislation The book contains practical information for researchers NGOs and international organizations decision makers entrepreneurs and students Orphan Crops: Breeding and Biotechnology for Sustainable Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Simon E. Bull,Jill Margaret Farrant,Rita Hogan Mumm,Zerihen Tadele,2024-01-18 Orphan crops play an important role in food and nutrition security especially in growing economies where small holder farmers produce the majority of food Despite their importance in global agriculture and their often remarkable nutrient content and adaptation to challenging environmental conditions orphan crops have received limited attention by the scientific community and industry However the diversity of neglected plant species provides a large genetic resource that could significantly contribute to broadening the biodiversity of trait desired crops for novel value chains sustainable development and food security The uptake of new plant breeding techniques notably genome editing as well as omic tools are now accelerating translation of basic research and facilitating the exploration of orphan crops These advancements also give rise to public and politic engagement discussions to maximize socio economic impact Given that the greatest need for food and nutritional security is in growing economies issues of food sovereignty and sustainability of their food systems become front and centre There is now an exceptional opportunity to tackle some of the major current challenges in agriculture including climate change sustainable cropping systems food quality and nutritional security through broadening research in wild relatives of crops and on orphan species This Research Topic seeks to showcase research on neglected plants using advanced molecular technologies e g genome sequencing omics etc and new plant breeding approaches methods and tools This Research Topic will also discuss the challenges and opportunities arising when modern breeding techniques are applied for translational research

Local, Traditional and Indigenous Food Systems in the 21st Century to Combat Obesity, Undernutrition and Climate Change, 2nd edition Rebecca Kanter,Sofia Boza,Gina Kennedy,2023-07-31 Traditional and indigenous food systems have existed for centuries and were in balance with local food supplies globally. However, between the mid 20th and early 21st century, the green revolution dramatically altered food production, which in turn affected the inclusivity of traditional production systems within food systems and subsequently traditional dietary intakes. This change was accompanied by lifestyle changes and spurred a global nutrition transition. Today, the world faces a global syndemic of obesity, undernutrition, and climate change. A new call to action to create food systems that nourish people and sustain the planet is needed. Traditional and indigenous food systems have long been recognized as systems that can both support good human nutrition as well as maintain a balance with nature. There is an underutilized knowledge base around traditional and indigenous food systems. This includes the knowledge of nutritious species, traditional culinary preparations, and cultural practices. Greater agricultural production of underutilized species can result in more sustainable agricultural and food systems, which can also help improve livelihoods and food security. Traditional and indigenous cultural practices with respect to both land and water management as well as culinary practices contribute to both sustainable food production and consumption. These practices require a greater evidence base in order to be incorporated into public health nutrition initiatives related to improving dietary quality, such as food-based dietary guidelines, for example. An increased focus on the importance of local traditional and indigenous food systems and nutrition could therefore help countries to improve human nutrition and ideally help mitigate the global syndemic of obesity, undernutrition, and climate change. This Research Topic will focus on documenting diverse local food systems and promoting elements within them that can help improve nutrition and health, both human and planetary, in various ways, including the livelihood development of knowledge holders.

Pathogenic and Symbiotic Bacteria in Ruminants: Antimicrobial Resistance and Microbial Homeostasis Yi Yang, Jilei Zhang, Heba Sayed El-Mahallawy, 2024-01-22

Ruminants have been domesticated for thousands of years, living alongside and providing many benefits to human beings in various ways. They provide food, fiber, power, biomaterials, and share in providing traditional medicine for people worldwide. However, bacterial infections do not only impact domestic and wild animals, which may cause economic loss and health issues, but also represent a great threat to the health of human beings. Moreover, due to the inadvertent use of antimicrobials, especially in the treatment of bovine mastitis, the resultant antimicrobial resistance is raising our concerns. Meanwhile, symbiotic bacteria play an important role in the ruminants, who have a unique digestive system that allows them to better use energy from fibrous plant material than other herbivores. Therefore, all of these challenges urge researchers to pay more attention to the emergence and the molecular characterization of pathogenic, multidrug-resistant bacteria, in addition to the gastroenterological microbiome dysbiosis in ruminants. The purpose of this Research Topic is to highlight and stimulate discussions regarding the antimicrobial resistance and microbial homeostasis of pathogenic and symbiotic bacteria in ruminants and their products, thereby helping us further understand the role of bacteria in the pathological and physiological processes of ruminants. In addition, more attention should be paid to low cost and effective antimicrobials alternatives for the prevention and or treatment of bacterial diseases in ruminants in order to reduce the potential threat to the health of human beings resulting from the overreliance on antimicrobial therapy The Palgrave Handbook of Contemporary Kenya Wanjala S.
