Science Research and Education in Africa Alain L. Fymat,Joachim Kapalanga,2017-03-07 For various economic and political reasons many African countries lag behind the rest of the industrialised world in scientific and medical research and development However the presence of intellectual islands scattered across the continent gives hope that this is only a transient situation on the cusp of undergoing a profound and beneficial change For this reason the Society for the Advancement of Science in Africa was established to catalyse and contribute to this needed evolution Its mission is to contribute to Africa s economic advancement and sustainability through science research education and innovation This book provides a selection of papers from the Advancement of Science in Africa s third annual conference The conference was held under the overarching theme of science research and education in Africa with several important sub themes including but not limited to improving health research and disease surveillance education epidemic diseases with high mortality promoting women s interest in science careers fostering youth development with science education The collection illustrates how although the chapter contributors come from various countries and universities representing their own academic research they all share a common interest in advancing science research and education in Africa Commonwealth Universities Yearbook ,1992 Reform Agenda for Education Sector in Kenya ,2003 The Weekly Review ,1986 Innovations in University Management Bikas C. Sanyal,1995 Many factors have contributed to the increased pressure on institutions of higher education worldwide to become more cost effective In 1990 the International Institute for Educational Planning IIEP launched an international research program on the problems of higher education management at the institutional level to create a knowledge base on the methods of better utilization of existing resources The research began with an extensive literature review and creation of an information base and continued with the writing of a series of papers on methodological issues and the preparation of 14 in depth case studies on different types of innovations The results of these activities were used to prepare a set of training materials for intensive training courses The exchange of individual university experiences in managerial innovations in these training courses provided an additional knowledge base for IIEP This book attempts to synthesize all these results from the research and training programs The book s sections are 1 The Research Programme 2 The External Environment of Higher Educational Institutions 3 Improving University Management to Meet Changing Needs 4 Improving Selected Areas of University Management including financial academic staff research and economic links space and educational delivery systems and 5 Prospects for Improving Management Chapters contain references EV
