Housing and Social Change in Europe and the USA Michael Ball, Michael Harloe, Maartjie Martens, 2013-10-28 First published in 1988 This book argues that there is a growing structural crisis in the provision of housing in advanced capitalist countries and that the steady improvement in housing conditions since 1945 is unlikely to continue The dilemmas facing housing policy makers can no longer be seen as concerned just with distributional questions but with problems generated by the restructuring of key elements of housing provision including private housing finance and the housebuilding industry It looks at housing markets housing policies and specific institutions connected with housing provision in many advanced capitalist countries including Britain the USA France West Germany the Netherlands and Denmark It considers the different sectors and the changes taking place there using case study material where appropriate to support its varied and convincing arguments The States and Distressed Communities, 1985 The States and Distressed Communities United States. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, 1985 Exit with Honor William E Pemberton, 2015-03-04 Few presidents have sparked as much interest in recent years as Ronald Reagan already the subject of a large number of biographies and specialized subjects This biography based on recent research into the Reagan archives and synthesis of the large memoir literature explores the shaping of his values and beliefs during his childhood in the American heartland his leadership of the American conservative movement and his successful political career culminating in the first two term presidency since Dwight Eisenhower Pemberton finds Reagan's personal career and ability to understand and communicate with the American people admirable but finds many of the long term effects of his presidency harmful Cityscape, 1994

The Legacy of Reaganomics Charles R. Hulten, Isabel V. Sawhill, 1984 ERS Staff Report, 1986 U.S. and West German Housing Markets K. Stahl, R.J. Struyk, 2013-11-11 For many years countries have taken advantage of one another's experiences in formulating social policies and even in designing specific interventions Often such transfers have occurred on a fairly casual level sometimes greater rigor has been present In either case the goal has been to learn from previous experience at least to avoid repeating the mistakes of the past In light of the promise that such intercountry transfers hold it is somewhat surprising that so little energy has gone into careful analytic work on the behavior of households in differing countries and how they respond to various changes especially those resulting from shifts in public policy This lack of careful analysis was a major force that motivated The Urban Institute to establish an international studies program in 1982 This volume represents one of the early products of the collaborative efforts that this initiative has spawned The results of the comparison of the housing markets in West Germany and the United States presented here offer examples of the type of unexpected conclusions that may emerge from careful analyses as well as more anticipated outcomes Despite the many similarities in the economies of the United States and West Germany and the general free market orientation of their housing sectors the papers in this volume document important differences in the way households make decisions about their housing and the consequences of these decisions

The People's Home? Michael Harloe, 2011-08-15 The People's Home is a magisterial examination of the development of social rented housing over the last hundred years in six advanced capitalist countries Britain France Germany the Netherlands Denmark and the USA

Robertson, Milton Greenblatt, 2013-11-22 Distinguished contributors analyze the problem of homelessness from a clinical perspective focusing on the major health problems found among the homeless special populations within the homeless and strategies for improvement and change

Housing the Poor in the Developing World Graham Tipple, Kenneth G. Tipple, 2003-10-04 First Published in 2004 Housing policies and programmes tend to result from political expediency rather than a rational and informed analysis of the situation and the demands of individual households for housing Housing the Poor in the Developing World aims to show how methods of analysis can be used to improve efficacy and equity in housing projects and policies with analysis designed for local circumstances This book is aimed at satisfying the need to bring together methods of analysis from several disciplines which can be applied to housing Each method is presented and illustrated with a case study to show how it can be used to inform housing policy in a wide range of countries in all parts of the developing world

Housing Vouchers E. Jay Howenstine, 2017-09-04 Outside the United States the idea of a consumer housing subsidy is a highly developed concept Housing allowances shelter allowances rent allowances or rent rebates as they are called have been paid out on a larger scale for longer periods of time on an entitlement basis with a much greater variety of rationales than in the United States As the United States moves ahead with its demonstration program it is timely to examine and evaluate foreign experiences with the consumer housing approach E Jay Howenstine addresses common questions that have puzzled many policymakers How do consumer housing subsidies work For tenants Homeowners Builders And government officials Gathered here is the definitive experience of the countries that have employed them From Australia to the United Kingdom here is the reality gleaned from a dozen countries and brought to bear on the United States Both the virtues and the limitations of the approach are presented in detail for everyone interested in housing This study is divided into three major parts First Howenstine reviews the historical background and analyzes housing allowance strategies that foreign governments have adopted A second part examines in detail the major principles and elements with which governments have fashioned their systems The third part examines the impact of housing allowance systems and weighs them in the light of the original objectives Conclusions are also drawn about foreign experiences Should financial assistance to low income families be in the form of consumer housing subsidies or producer housing subsidies or some synthesis of the two systems Should the housing allowance be maintained as a separate housing policy or should it be integrated into a general income maintenance policy This book addresses an increasingly prominent portion of the housing market City Choices Kenneth K.

Wong,1990-07-05 City Choices argues that both economic concerns and political factors can be synthesized in a new framework in city policymaking This synthesis is based on a systematic empirical study of policymaking in two large cities Using numerous governmental documents and conducting extensive interviews with local state and federal officials the author examines how the two cities have implemented both federal redistributive and development programs in education and housing The author uses three models in explaining city choices economic constraint clientele participation and institutional diversity and concludes by offering his political choice perspective which identifies specific sets of local political forces that are likely to alter the city s rational choices in development and redistributive issues The Closing Door Gary Orfield,Carole Ashkinaze,1993-11 The Closing Door is the first major critique of the effect of conservative policies on urban race and poverty in the 1980s Atlanta with its booming economy strong elected black leadership and many highly educated blacks seemed to be the perfect site for those policies and market solutions to prove themselves Unfortunately not only did expected economic opportunity fail to materialize but many of the hard won gains of the civil rights movement were lost Orfield and Ashkinaze painstakingly analyze the evidence from Atlanta to show why black opportunity deteriorated over the 1980s and outline possible remedies for the damage inflicted by the Reagan and Bush administrations The Closing Door is a crucial breath of fresh air an important and timely text which will help to alter the underclass debate in favor of reconsidering race specific policies Orfield and Ashkinaze construct a convincing argument with which those who favor race neutrality will have to contend In readable prose they make a compelling case that economic growth is not enough Preston H Smith II Transition Urban Infrastructure and Economic Development in American Cities United States.
