Performing Identities and Utopias of Belonging Teresa Botelho, Iolanda Ramos, 2014-07-08 Performing Identities and Utopias of Belonging consists of sixteen essays reflecting the current conflicted debate on the ontology, constructiveness and affect of categories of ascribed social identity such as gender, ethnicity, race and nation in the context of British, Irish and North American cultural landscapes. They address the many ways in which these communities of belonging are imagined, iterated, performed, questioned and deconstructed in literature, cinema and visual culture; they also support or counter claims about the enhanced value of social identity in the expression of the self in the light of the present debates that surround the contested post-identity turn in cultural studies. Significantly, they also address the role of social identity in the field of utopian and dystopian thought, focusing on the projection of imagined futures where alternative means of conceiving ascribed identity are conceptualized. The contributions are shaped by a plurality of approaches and theoretical discourses and come from both established and emerging scholars and researchers from Europe and beyond. The collection is structured in three sections: the politics of unbelonging; deconstructing utopian and cultural paradigms; and performing identities in the visual arts, which organize the multidisciplinary discussions around specific nuclei of interrogations.

Epistolary Encounters in Neo-Victorian Fiction K. Brindle, 2014-01-24 Neo-Victorian writers invoke conflicting viewpoints in diaries, letters, etc. to creatively retrace the past in fragmentary and contradictory ways. This book explores the complex desires involved in epistolary discoveries of hidden Victorians, offering new insight into the creative synthesising of critical thought within the neo-Victorian novel.

Tennyson Among the Novelists John Morton, 2010-06-24 Until now the study of literary allusion has focused on allusions made by poets to other poets. In Tennyson Among the Novelists, John Morton presents the first book-length account of the presence of a poet's work in works of prose fiction. As well as shedding new light on the poems of Tennyson and their reception history, Morton covers a wide variety of novelists, including Thomas Hardy, James Joyce, Evelyn Waugh and Andrew O'Hagan, offering a fresh look at their approach to writing. Morton shows how Tennyson's poetry, despite its frequent depreciation by critics, has survived as a vivifying presence in the novel from the Victorian period to the present day.

Exploited, Empowered, Ephemeral Denise Burkhard, 2023-07-10 Childhood in neo-Victorian fiction for both child and adult readers is an extremely multifaceted and fascinating field. This book argues that neo-Victorian fiction projects multiple competing visions of childhood and suggests that they can be analysed by means of a typology of the childhood scale, which provides different categories along the lines of power relations and literary possible worlds theory. The usefulness of both is exemplified by detailed discussions of Philippa Pearce's Tom's Midnight Garden (1958), Eva Ibbotson's Journey to the River Sea (2001), Sarah Waters' Fingersmith (2002) and Dianne Setterfield's The Thirteenth Tale (2006).
