Transformative Practices for Minority Student Success Dina C. Maramba, Timothy P. Fong, 2023-07-03 Between 2000 and 2015 the Asian American Pacific Islander population grew from nearly 12 million to over 20 million at 72% percent recording the fastest growth rate of any major ethnic and racial group in the US This book the first to focus wholly on Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Institutions AANAPISIs and their students offers a corrective to misconceptions about these populations and documents student services and leadership programs innovative pedagogies models of community engagement and collaborations across academic and student affairs that have transformed student outcomes The contributors stress the importance of disaggregating this population that is composed of over 40 ethnic groups that vary in immigrant histories languages religion educational attainment levels and socioeconomic status This book recognizes there is a large population of underserved Asian American and Pacific Islander college students who given their educational disparities are in severe need of attention The contributors describe effective practices that enable instructors to validate the array of students specific backgrounds and circumstances within the contexts of developing such skills as writing leadership and cross cultural communication for their class cohorts as a whole They demonstrate that paying attention to the diversity of student experiences in the teaching environment enriches the learning for all The timeliness of this volume is important because of the keen interest across the nation for creating equitable environments for our increasingly diverse students This book serves as an important resource for predominantly white institutions who are admitting greater numbers of API and other underrepresented students It also offers models for other minority serving institutions who face similar complexities of multiple national or ethnic groups within their populations provides ideas and inspiration for the AANAPISI community and guidance for institutions considering applying for AANAPISI status and funding This book is for higher education administrators faculty researchers student affairs practitioners who can learn from AANAPISIs how to successfully engage and teach students with widely differing cultural backgrounds and educational circumstances Democratic Dilemmas of Teaching Service-Learning Christine M. Cress, David M. Donahue, 2023-07-03 A college student wants to lead a campaign to ban a young adult novel from his child's elementary school as his service learning project in a children's literature course Believing the book is offensive to religious sensibilities he sees his campaign as a service to children and the community Viewing such a ban as limiting freedom of speech and access to information the student's professor questions whether leading a ban qualifies as a service project If the goal of service is to promote more vital democratic communities what should the student do What should the professor do How do they untangle competing democratic values How do they make a decision about action This book addresses the teaching dilemmas such as the above that instructors and students encounter in service learning courses Recognizing that teaching in general and service learning in particular are inherently political this book faces up to the resulting predicaments that inevitably arise in the classroom By framing them as a vital and productive part of the process of teaching and learning for political engagement this book offers the reader new ways to think about and address seemingly intractable ideological issues Faculty encounter many challenges when teaching service learning courses These may arise from students' resistance to the idea of serving their lack of responsibility wasting clients and community agencies time and money the misalignment of community partner expectations with academic goals or faculty uncertainty about when to guide students' experiences and when direct intervention is necessary In over twenty chapters of case studies faculty scholars from disciplines as varied as computer science engineering English history and sociology take readers on their and their students' intellectual journeys sharing their messy unpredictable and often inspiring accounts of democratic tensions and trials inherent in teaching service learning Using real incidents and describing the resources and classroom activities they employ they explore the democratic intersections of various political beliefs along with race ethnicity class gender ability sexual orientation and other lived differences and likenesses that students and faculty experience in their service learning classroom and extended community They share their struggles of how to communicate and interact across the divide of viewpoints and experiences within an egalitarian and inclusive environment all the while managing interpersonal tensions and conflicts among diverse people in complex value-laden situations The experienced contributors to this book offer pedagogical strategies for constructing service learning courses and non-prescriptive approaches to dilemmas for which there can be no definitive solutions The Double Bind in Physics Education Maria

Ong,2023-05-09 An incisive study of the mechanisms reinforcing the underrepresentation of women of color in STEM fields and a call for systemic change to address the imbalance In a detailed exploration of inclusion in physics social scientist Maria Ong makes the case for far reaching higher education reform noting that despite diversity efforts to recruit more women and students of color into science and mathematics programs many leave the STEM pipeline The Double Bind in Physics Education takes readers inside the issue by following 10 women of color from their entrance into the undergraduate physics program at a large research university through their pursuit of various educational and career paths Candid interviews with these women their instructors and mentors and their peers conducted over 25 years allow Ong to trace how pervasive challenges such as navigating the intersectionality of race and gender discrimination have shaped their academic opportunities and career choices Despite the ideals of objectivity promoted in STEM disciplines the women profiled here encounter continued patterns of systemic oppression within their departments In their stories Ong identifies overt behaviors and microaggressions that harass exclude and otherwise disadvantage women of color and members of other minoritized groups Ong also shows how aids such as student support programs peer groups allies and mentors which are centered on the individual can go only so far toward a sustainable solution In order to provide equitable opportunities she argues greater work must be done to dismantle institutional norms and replace them with a culture of inclusion College Students in

Challenges and Transitions in Education in Times of Crisis Purpuri, Leah, Gray, Sancha, 2024-07-26 The COVID 19 pandemic emerged as a disruptive force that exposed numerous challenges From the sudden shift to virtual learning accompanied by technology disparities to issues of diversity equity and inclusion the crisis impacted students families educators and leaders alike The social and emotional well being of learners took center stage and the need for academic rigor became even more pressing as learning gaps widened Teachers faced the challenge of maintaining motivation while complications in students home lives became increasingly apparent The involvement or lack thereof of families and communities in the education process added another layer of complexity It is within this complex educational landscape that our book presents itself as a beacon of hope and transformation Challenges and Transitions in Education in Times of Crisis is the solution to the unprecedented challenges that COVID 19 brought to the education sector. It goes beyond just analyzing the problems and delves deep into innovative and actionable solutions that have emerged from this crisis. The book provides a comprehensive overview of the educational environment from pre-pandemic to post-pandemic through a lens of opportunity. It is a guide for all stakeholders in education presenting evidence-based strategies and best practices to address the complex issues facing our schools.

Introducing Interdisciplinary Modules in Higher Education Simon Pratt-Adams, Mark Warnes, Elaine Brown, 2025-03-31. This interdisciplinary book uses key examples and specific case studies from the Trailblazers of Anglia Ruskin University UK to address the successes and challenges experienced during the creation, development, and running of breadth modules. It's been carefully written to support anyone looking to implement this innovative method into their own university setting. With content informed by the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals and using active learning pedagogies, interdisciplinary student teams work together to develop sustainable solutions, allowing for the growth of skills vital for enhancing student employability. The chapters are grounded in theory, making the discussions transferable to a wide readership interested in interdisciplinary approaches at the higher education level. The theoretical underpinnings of the discussions in each chapter will open up questions relating to contemporary issues such as diversity and representation, poverty, and sustainability, artificial intelligence, and social justice. This is a must-read text for anyone seeking to implement similar breadth modules at their institutions or considering how to develop strategies that address whole-institution questions such as sustainability and employability.

Diversity and Education Benefits Serge Herzog, 2010-04-12. Campus climate studies and research on the impact of diversity in higher education abound. On closer examination, however, the corpus of findings on the role of diversity and how diversity is captured with campus climate surveys reveals both conceptual and methodological limitations. This volume of New Directions for Institutional Research addresses these limitations with the inclusion of studies by institutional research (IR) practitioners who make use of data that furnish new insights into the relationships among student diversity, student perception of campus climate, and student sociodemographic background, and how those relationships affect academic outcomes. Each chapter emphasizes how IR practitioners benefit from the conceptual and analytical approach laid out, and each chapter provides a framework to gauge the contribution of diversity to educational benefits. The findings revealed in this volume cast doubt on the benefits of student diversity purported in previous research. At a minimum, the influence of student diversity is neither linear nor unidirectional but operates within a complex web of interrelated factors that shape the student experience. This is the 145th volume of New Directions for Institutional Research. Always timely and comprehensive, New Directions for Institutional Research provides planners and administrators in all types of academic institutions with guidelines in such areas as resource coordination, information analysis, program evaluation, and institutional management.
