Jussive Particles and Nouns in Classical Arabic (CA) and Modern Standard Arabic (MSA) Conditional Sentences Alif Cahya Setiyadi, 2024-10-16 The jussive particles and nouns in Arabic conditional sentences in Classical and Modern Standard Arabic are a crucial aspect of Arabic grammar that has not been extensively explored Focusing on the Quranic and al adith corpora representing Classical Arabic and the University of Leipzig corpora of Modern Standard Arabic this book explores and compares frequency of occurrences of the particles and nouns of the jussive conditional sentences such as in idhm man m ayyuhum ayyu n mat ann aina and aithum in CA and MSA The collocation and colligation phenomena of those particles and nouns are presented to understand and open up the expanse of the syntax construction of the jussive moods in conditional sentences in both Arabic variants This corpus based study reveals significant points in their usage and syntactic structures providing valuable insights into their main similarities and differences in both Arabic variants Introduction to Arabic Natural Language Processing Nizar Y. Habash, 2022-06-01 This book provides system developers and researchers in natural language processing and computational linguistics with the necessary background information for working with the Arabic language The goal is to introduce Arabic linguistic phenomena and review the state of the art in Arabic processing The book discusses Arabic script phonology orthography morphology syntax and semantics with a final chapter on machine translation issues The chapter sizes correspond more or less to what is linguistically distinctive about Arabic with morphology getting the lion's share followed by Arabic script No previous knowledge of Arabic is needed This book is designed for computer scientists and linguists alike The focus of the book is on Modern Standard Arabic however notes on practical issues related to Arabic dialects and languages written in the Arabic script are presented in different chapters Table of Contents What is Arabic Arabic Script Arabic Phonology and Orthography Arabic Morphology Computational Morphology Tasks Arabic Syntax A Note on Arabic Semantics A Note on Arabic and Machine Translation The Arabic Verb Warwick Danks, 2011 The Arabic verbal system is for most grammarians the keystone of the language Notable for the regularity of its patterns it presents the linguist with an unparalleled opportunity to explore the Saussurean notion of the indivisible sign form and meaning Whilst Arabic forms are well documented the elucidation of the corresponding meanings has proved more challenging Beginning with an examination of the verbal morphology of Modern Standard Arabic including an evaluation of the significance of the consonantal root this volume then concentrates on establishing the function of the vowel lengthening verbal patterns III and VI It explores issues of mutuality and reciprocity valency and transitivity ultimately focusing on atelic lexical aspect as the unified meaning of these patterns This study is rich in data and relies extensively upon contemporary examples with transliteration and translation to illustrate its arguments adopting an empirical structuralist approach which is aimed both at general linguists and at specialist Arabists Structure and Function of the Arabic Verb Maher Bahloul, 2007-08-07 Structure and Function of the Arabic Verb is a corpus based study that unveils the morpho syntax and the semantics of the Arabic verb Approaches to verbal grammatical categories the constituents of verbal systems often rely on either semantic pragmatic or syntactic analyses This research bridges the gap between these two distinct approaches through a detailed analysis of Taxis Aspect Tense and Modality in Standard Arabic This is accomplished by showing firstly some basic theoretical concerns shared by both schools of thought and secondly the extent to which semantic structures and invariant meanings mirror syntactic representations Maher Bahloul's findings also indicate that the basic constituents of the verbal system in Arabic namely the Perfect and the Imperfect are systematically differentiated through their invariant semantic features in a markedness relation Finally this study suggests that the syntactic derivation of verbal and nominal clauses are sensitive to whether or not verbal categories are specified for their feature values providing therefore a principled explanation to a long standing debate This reader friendly book will appeal to both specialists and students of Arabic linguistics language and syntax New Perspectives in Role and Reference Grammar Wataru Nakamura, 2011-09-22

New Perspectives in Role and Reference Grammar presents a broad picture of current developments in Role and Reference Grammar RRG a version of parallel structure grammar with an emphasis on typological adequacy Since its inception RRG has been applied to a wide range of languages in particular to case marking complex clauses e.g. control raising and serial verb constructions unaccusativity unergativity and the interplay between syntax and information structure The present book is a continued investigation of the intermodular correspondence in a variety of languages and comprises 13 papers which not only contribute to the further development of the theory but also investigate controversial areas of linguistic theory including inflectional and derivational morphology verbal semantics and argument structure anticausative and serial verb constructions the argument adjunct distinction an extended typology of complex clauses the syntax information structure interface and interactions between the lexicon and constructions In addition three papers illustrate how RRG may be applied to sign languages language acquisition and machine translation from Arabic to English Modern Standard Arabic Peter F. Abboud, Ernest N. McCarus, 1983-04-29 This 1983 course is the premier introduction for the English speaking student to the active written language of the contemporary Arab world Handbook for Arabic Language Teaching Professionals in the 21st Century Kassem Wahba, Zeinab A. Taha, Liz England, 2014-06-03 This landmark volume offers an introduction to the field of teaching Arabic as a foreign or second language. Recent growth in student numbers and the demand for new and more diverse Arabic language programs of instruction have created a need that has outpaced the ability of teacher preparation programs to provide sufficient numbers of well qualified professional teachers at the level of skill required. Arabic language program administrators anticipate that the increases in enrollment will continue into the next decades. More resources and more varied materials are seriously needed in Arabic teacher education and training. The goal of this Handbook is to address that need. The most significant feature of this volume is its pioneer role in approaching the field of Arabic language teaching from many different perspectives. It offers readers the opportunity to consider the role, status and content of Arabic language teaching in the world today. The Handbook is intended as a resource to be used in building Arabic language and teacher education programs and in guiding future academic research. Thirty four chapters authored by leaders in the field are organized around nine themes: Background of Arabic Language Teaching; Contexts of Arabic Language Teaching; Communicative Competence in Arabic; The Learners; Assessment; Technology Applications; Curriculum Development; Design and Models; Arabic Language Program Administration and Management; and Planning for the Future of Arabic Language Learning and Teaching. The Handbook for Arabic Language Teaching Professionals in the 21st Century will benefit and be welcomed by Arabic language teacher educators and trainers, administrators, graduate students and scholars around the world. It is intended to create dialogue among scholars and professionals in the field and in related fields; dialogue that will contribute to creating new models for curriculum and course design, materials and assessment tools and ultimately better instructional effectiveness for all Arabic learners everywhere in both Arabic speaking and non Arabic speaking countries.

A Basic Grammar of Ugaritic Language Stanislaw Segert, 2023-11-15 In 1929 the first cuneiform tablet inscribed with previously unknown signs was found during archeological excavations at Ras Shamra, ancient Ugarit in northern Syria. Since then a special discipline, sometimes called Ugaritology, has arisen. The impact of the Ugaritic language and of the many texts written in it has been felt in the study of Semitic languages and literatures in the history of the ancient Near East and especially in research devoted to the Hebrew Bible. In fact, knowledge of Ugaritic has become a standard prerequisite for the scientific study of the Old Testament. The Ugaritic texts, written in the fourteenth and thirteenth centuries B.C., represent the oldest complex of connected texts in any West Semitic language now available. 1984 Their language is of critical importance for comparative Semitic linguistics and is uniquely important to the critical study of Biblical Hebrew. Ugaritic, which was spoken in a northwestern corner of the larger Canaanite linguistic area, cannot be considered a direct ancestor of Biblical Hebrew, but its conservative character can help in the reconstruction of the older stages of Hebrew phonology, word formation and inflection. These systems were later, that is, during the period in which the biblical texts were actually written, complicated by phonological and other changes. The Ugaritic texts are remarkable, however, for more than just their antiquity.

and their linguistic witness They present a remarkably vigorous and mature literature one containing both epic cycles and shorter poems The poetic structure of Ugaritic is noteworthy among other reasons for its use of the parallelism of members that also characterizes such ancient and archaizing poems in the Hebrew Bible as the Song of Deborah in Judges 5 the Song of the Sea in Exodus 15 Psalms 29 68 and 82 and Habakkuk 3 Textual sources and their rendering The basic source for the study of Ugaritic is a corpus of texts written in an alphabetic cuneiform script unknown before 1929 this script represents consonants fully and exactly but gives only limited and equivocal indication of vowels Our knowledge of the Ugaritic language is supplemented by evidence from Akkadian texts found at Ugarit and containing many Ugaritic words especially names written in the syllabic cuneiform script Scholars reconstructing the lost language of Ugarit draw finally on a wide variety of comparative linguistic data data from texts not found at Ugarit as well as from living languages Evidence from Phoenician Hebrew Amorite Aramaic Arabic Akkadian Ethiopic and recently also Eblaite can be applied to good effect For the student as well as for the research scholar it is important that the various sources of Ugaritic be distinguished in modern transliteration or transcription Since many of the texts found at Ugarit are fragmentary or physically damaged it is well for students to be clear about what portion of a text that they are reading actually survives and what portion is a modern attempt to fill in the blanks While the selected texts in section 8 reflect the state of preservation in detail in the other sections of the grammar standardized forms are presented based on all available evidence In 1929 the first cuneiform tablet inscribed with previously unknown signs was found during archeological excavations at Ras Shamra ancient Ugarit in northern Syria Since then a special discipline sometimes called Ugaritology has arisen The impact of Ugaritic on the study of Semitic Language, 2008 Resources in Education, 1995
