A Study Of Saisiyat Morphology Oceanic Linguistics Special Publications:

A Study of Saisiyat Morphology Elizabeth Zeitoun, Tai-hwa Chu, a tahesh kabaybaw Lalo, 2015-02-28 Saisiyat is a Formosan language spoken in the north western part of Taiwan. It is divided into two groups: a northern and a southern group. The Northern group used to speak the Taai dialect, also known as the Northern dialect, and lives in the upper reaches of the Shangping river in Wufeng Township, Hsinchu County. It is now largely acculturated to the Atayal. The Southern group speaks the Tungho dialect, also referred to as the Southern dialect. Most of the population is distributed throughout the valley delineated by the Eastern and the Southern rivers in Nanchuang Township, Miaoli County, and further divided into two major communities: Tungho and Penglai, dispersed in a number of villages/settlements. A small amount of the population among the Southern group is also located in the upper reaches of the Shihtan River in Shihtan Township, Miaoli County, and forms a third community referred to as Shihtan. The major difference between the two dialects is said to lie in their phonologies, but no study has so far attempted to determine the amount of lexical and morpho-syntactic variation. The goal of this monograph is to provide a functional and empirically based study of the morphology of Tungho Saisiyat in an attempt to clarify the morphological units, morphological processes, major lexical categories of this language, and further discuss its nominal and verbal morphology. The choice to orient this study towards morphology is explained by the fact that even though Saisiyat is now one of the best documented Formosan languages, there is one grammatical sketch and numerous studies on various aspects of Saisiyat grammar; there are still few studies on Saisiyat morphology, which level of complexity has been overlooked in the past.

Prominence in Austronesian Bethwyn Evans, Åshild Næss, Jozina Vander Klok, 2024-01-29 The cognitive concept of prominence is increasingly seen as key to understanding the organisation of grammar. This volume explores the encoding of prominence in languages from across the Austronesian family. The contributions show how prominence is relevant to understanding asymmetries at different levels of grammatical structure: from discourse and information structure to argument expression and socio-pragmatics. Moreover, common themes across contributions point to crosslinguistic tendencies that underpin the conventionalisation of communicative patterns for coordinating interlocutors' attention and to points of departure for further crosslinguistic exploration of how grammatical asymmetries can be explained in terms of prominence.

A Dictionary of Nafsan, South Efate, Vanuatu Nicholas Thieberger, Members of the Erakor Community, 2021-10-31 This is a dictionary of Nafsan, the language spoken in Vanuatu in the south of Efate Island in the villages of Erakor, Pango and Eratap. Nafsan is one of 130 distinct languages spoken in Vanuatu. Over several decades, linguist Nicholas Thieberger worked in close collaboration with the Erakor community to record this unique language and to refine its written presentation. The resulting publication offers insight into the diversity of meanings available to speakers of Nafsan, providing some 3,400 senses for Nafsan words and an English-Nafsan finderlist. In addition, the book gives an overview of the Nafsan sound system, provides a list of existing literature on the language dating back to early missionary translations, and includes maps of Efate locating nearly 200 place names Readers will also find South Efate cultural knowledge embedded in the explanations of the Nafsan words and their usages A welcome companion to Thieberger's A Grammar of South Efate 2006 this book complements and significantly augments other multimedia resources made available online by the author

Numbami Grammar in Ethnohistorical Context Joel Bradshaw, 2025-05-31 The Numbami language is a small isolate tied to only one coastal village within the Huon Gulf family of Austronesian languages in Papua New Guinea It is currently classified as threatened with roughly two hundred active speakers according to its latest Ethnologue listing Numbami Grammar in Ethnohistorical Context is the first comprehensive description of the language and its ethnolinguistic relations to neighboring languages both Austronesian and Papuan Language contact has had significant effects on all the Oceanic languages of New Guinea This description therefore offers more ethnohistorical coverage than most reference grammars do documenting such factors as oral history sources evidence of multilingual villages in past and present and frequent movement and prolonged contact among the coastal languages It also notes the recent strong influence of Jab in the German Lutheran mission lingua franca Tok Pisin the national lingua franca and English Linguistic coverage focuses especially on verbs subject mood marking verb serialization deverbal resultatives prepositions and complementizers and the highly productive compositional semantics of two small sets of ubiquitous core verbs The members of one set function as polysemous light verbs while the members of the other set play complementary roles in multiverb path constructions Numbami serial verb constructions SVCs include switch subject as well as same subject relationships between verbs The subjects of some adverbial serial verbs appear to be the events described by the earlier verbs in the SVC Although Numbami appears to be phonologically conservative it has shed most of its inherited Oceanic morphology Possessive suffixes exist only on a few kinship terms there is only one set of genitive pronouns and there are no morphological means of deriving verbs from nouns or nouns from verbs Light verbs and resultatives work to expand the inventory of verbal expressions and postposed attributive genitives help expand the inventory of nominal expressions Relative clauses are postposed and marked at both ends as in most of the neighboring Oceanic languages One chapter notes discourse phenomena including topic marking tail head linkage and a tabular analysis of the roles of overt vs null subjects in narrative texts Those texts are reproduced with interlinear glosses and translations in the appendices
