A Study Of Scarletts Scarlett Ohara And Her Literary Daughters:

A Study of Scarletts Margaret Donovan Bauer, 2014-07-31 This comparative study examines Scarlett O'Hara as a literary archetype revealing critical prejudice against strong female characters. There are two portrayals of Scarlett O'Hara: the famous one of the film Gone with the Wind and Margaret Mitchell's more sympathetic character in the book. In A Study of Scarletts, Margaret D. Bauer examines both, noting that although Scarlett is just sixteen at the start of the novel, she is criticized for behavior that would have been excused if she were a man. Her stalwart determination in the face of extreme adversity made Scarlett an icon and an inspiration to female readers. Yet today she is often condemned as a sociopathic shrew. Bauer offers a more complex and sympathetic reading of Scarlett before examining Scarlett-like characters in other novels, including Charles Frazier's Cold Mountain, Ellen Glasgow's Barren Ground, Toni Morrison's Sula, and Kat Meads' The Invented Life of Kitty Duncan. Through these selections, Bauer touches on themes of female independence, mother-daughter relationships, the fraught nature of romance, and the importance of female friendship. Southern Studies, 2018. An interdisciplinary journal of the South.

Paul Green's The House of Connelly Paul Green, 2014-09-09 One of Paul Green's best plays, The House of Connelly, was the first play performed on Broadway in 1931 by the renowned Group Theatre of New York. This book reintroduces the play and the playwright, famous in his day but largely forgotten now. Although his outdoor symphonic drama The Lost Colony continues to be performed every summer in Manteo, North Carolina, The House of Connelly is a more traditional drama comparable to the writing of Tennessee Williams. The editor asserts that the play deals more directly and fully with racial issues of the early 20th-century South than Williams did in his work. A new edition of the play includes both the original tragic ending and the revised ending. Green wrote upon the Group Theatre directors' request. The writing, production, and publication history of the play is provided, as well as a scene-by-scene critical analysis and a discussion of the 1934 film adaptation, Carolina. The play's theme is change, and Green shows with both endings that the South had to change to survive. The Mississippi Quarterly, 2015. Gender, Genre, and Race in Post-Neo-Slave Narratives

Dana Renee Horton, 2022-08-16 Gender, Genre, and Race in Post-Neo-Slave Narratives provides an innovative conceptual framework for describing representations of slavery in twenty-first-century American cultural productions. Covering a broad range of narrative forms ranging from novels like The Known World to films like 12 Years a Slave and the music of Missy Elliott, Dana Renee Horton engages with post-Neo-Slave narratives, a genre she defines as literary and visual texts that mesh conventions of postmodernity with the Neo-Slave narrative. Focusing on the characterization of Black women in these texts, Horton argues that they are portrayed as commodities who commodify enslaved people, a fluid and complex characterization that is a foundational aspect of postmodern identity and emphasizes how postmodern identity restructures the conception of slave owners. The Beak in the Heart: True Tales of Misfit Southern Women Betina Entzminger, 2021-10-29 Vivid dramatic portraits of the author's misfit female ancestors and a candid intimate memoir about family secrets and breaking free from the narrow confines of a proper Southern woman The Beak in the Heart is a memoir of growing up Southern Betina Entzminger shares the poignant tales of women who preceded her misfit women who defied authority and suffered the consequences in the repressive South Carolina of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Entzminger links several generations of women from pre Civil War years to the present including Victoria a former slave and concubine to her third great uncle Rosalee a great aunt committed to the state hospital for forty years and Louise an aunt who unwittingly married a gay man at a time when divorce was not legal in South Carolina She also shares candid details of her rebellious youth and her own struggles with marriage and parenthood In exploring the lives of her spirited female relatives Entzminger their educated rebellious and misfit twenty first century descendant restores their voices and finds inspiration in their courage and integrity The Beak in the Heart speaks to all women regardless of region of birth who have felt that society has curbed their freedoms or silenced their voices
