Abstract. Argument Theory Change (ATC) applies classic belief change concepts to the area of argumentation. This intersection of fields takes advantage of the definition of a Dynamic Abstract Argumentation Framework, in which an argument is either active or inactive, and only in the former case it is taken into consideration in the reasoning process. ATC identifies how the framework has to be modified in order to achieve warrant for a certain argument. The present article copes with this matter by defining a revision operator based on activation of arguments, i.e., recognizing the knowledge that is missing.

1. Introduction and Background

This article presents a new approach to Argument Theory Change (ATC) [9,11], where belief change concepts [1,8] are translated to the field of argumentation. Here we use the Dynamic Abstract Argumentation Framework (DAF) [12], which extends Dung's framework [6] in order to consider (1) subarguments (internal, necessary parts of an argument that are arguments by themselves), and (2) a set of active arguments (those available to perform reasoning). The main contribution provided by ATC is a revision operator at argument level that revises a theory by an argument seeking for its warrant. That is, an argument is activated (begins to be considered by the argumentation machinery) and after its new status is analyzed, the revision theory proposes additional modifications to the set of active arguments in order to finally warrant the argument. The arguments to be activated will be defeaters of those somehow interfering with the warrant of the argument at issue. However, since defeaters might be unavailable to be activated, the activating revision is not always successful.

This article does not pursue a full formalization according to the classical theory of belief revision. Thus, no representation theorems nor characterization postulates are to be defined here. Instead, we look at the process of change from the argumentation standpoint. However, the usual principles of change from belief revision were taken into account, namely, minimal change and success.
