A View From The Wolfs Eye:

A View from the Wolf's Eye Carolyn C. Peterson, 2008 In Secret Mongolia Henning Haslund, Henning Haslund-Christensen, 1995 Translated from the Swedish by Elizabeth Sprigge and Claude Napier Communication and the Human Condition W. Barnett Pearce, 1989 Starting with the premise that we live in communication rather than standing outside communication and using it for secondary purposes Pearce claims that people who live in various cultures and historical epochs not only communicate differently but experience different ways of being human because they communicate differently This century he notes ushered in the communication revolution the discovery that communication is far more important and central to the human condition than ever before realized Essential to the communication revolution is the recognition that multiple forms of discourse exist in contemporary human society Further these forms of discourse are not benign they comprise alternative ways of being human Thus communication theory must encompass all that it means to live a life the shape of social institutions and cultural traditions the pragmatics of social action and the poetics of social order

Wolf Queen Charly Clarke, 2021-06-26 Where nature is the ultimate hierarchy and a hidden beast roams the night Step inside and relish in the savagery of the wolves Wolves and Human Communities Virginia Ashby Sharpe, Bryan G. Norton, Strachan Donnelley, 2001 Like wolf restoration activities in the West the proposal to reintroduce wolves into the Adirondacks has generated intense public debate The idea of returning top predators to settled landscapes raises complicated questions on issues ranging from property rights to wildlife management to obligations to present and future generations Ophthalmology and the Ageing Society Hendrik P.N. Scholl, Robert W. Massof, Sheila West, 2013-05-29 The ageing of the world's population is one of the major achievements of modern society. By 2050 an estimated 2 billion people will be aged 60 years or over. However, ageing poses major challenges and this is especially true for the field of ophthalmology given that the major eye diseases age-related macular degeneration, glaucoma, and cataract predominantly affect the elderly. The challenges facing ophthalmology in an ageing society have not previously been addressed in a comprehensive way, although there are common denominators of the various eye diseases that affect the elderly. This book provides such a comprehensive overview encompassing epidemiology, risk factors, current treatment, and prophylaxis, disability, comorbidity, and the impact on quality of life. World leaders in their respective fields provide state-of-the-art knowledge on the geriatric aspects of ophthalmology that will help to improve the management of this growing patient population.

Haunted Histories and Troubled Pasts Amanda Howell, Stephanie Green, 2024-04-18 Haunted Histories and Troubled Pasts speaks to how a transnational array of recent screen entertainments participate through horror in public discourses of history, the social and creative work of reshaping popular understanding of our world through the lens of the past. Contemporary film and television and popular screen cultures more generally are distinguished by their many and varied engagements with history, including participation in worldwide movements to reconcile past losses and injuries with present legacies. The chapters in this collection address themselves to 21st-century screen horror's participation in this widespread fascination with and concern for the historical, its recurrent reimagining of the relation between the past and present, which is part of its inheritance from the Gothic. They are concerned with the historical work of horror's spectral occupations, its visceral threats of violence, and its capacity for exploring repressed social identities as well as the ruptures and impositions of colonization and nationhood. Trauma is a key theme in this book, examined through themes of war and genocide, ghostly invasions, institutionalized abuse, apocalyptic threat, and environmental destruction. These persistent fearful reimaginings of the past can take many lurid, sometimes tritely generic forms. Together, these chapters explore and reflect upon horror's ability to speak through them to the unspoken of history, to push the boundaries and probe the fault lines and ideological impositions of received historical narratives while reminding us that history and the historical imagination persist as sites of contention.
